White Nationalists Bounce Back

Gary Gallo of the NDF urges all to become Political Soldiers.

To the consternation of the likes of Dan Rather, Morris Dees, and Sam Currin, all three of whom pronounced the racist movement dead in North Carolina, the annual Raleigh march on the weekend of the Martin Luther King holiday took place as usual. This year it was organized by the new Southern National Front which has succeeded Glenn Miller's White Patriot Party as the leading force in Carolina White Nationalism.

THE SYSTEM vs. THE WPP

Morris Dees, the head of the very wealthy Southern Poverty Law Center, filed a civil suit in 1985 against Glenn Miller, his deputy Steve Miller, and their North Carolina-based White Patriot Party (WPP) claiming that it was a racist paramilitary organization and was therefore operating contrary to North Carolina law. Miller settled the suit by agreeing not to operate as a paramilitary organization. This gave Dees the opportunity to reopen the suit in 1986 claiming that the WPP continued to operate as a paramilitary organization. Dees asked the court to find the Millers and the WPP in contempt of court for violating the court-sanctioned agreement reached the previous year.

A PROCEDURAL CIRCUS

Miller's court-provided attorney asked for a jury trial on the contempt issue as it was, in reality, a criminal matter, and this brought U.S. Attorney Sam Currin into the

A Personal Note on the Media

By Gary Gallo

On Saturday, January 31st, I attended a Ku Klux Klan demonstration in the tiny town of Easton which is on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. I did not participate, but only observed while moving in and around the crowd that had come largely out of curiosity.

The next day I read the following account of the event in the Washington Post:

While a crowd of about 350 blacks and whites pressed against the fence surrounding the courthouse lawn chanting "KKK go away", four members of the Confederation of Independent Orders Knights of the Ku Klux Klan stood outside the courthouse, protesting the sentencing of three people convicted of burning a cross on the property of a black family on Tilghman Island.

What is interesting about this account is that all of it is true, except its essence. Yes, there were four KKK members demonstrating on the courthouse steps. Yes, there was a crowd of hundreds of Blacks and Whites. But the "crowd" chanted nothing. There were six Black men with a handwritten sign that said "KKK go away" and these men chanted this slogan in unison and as loud as they could several times, but amazingly the Blacks in the crowd did not pick up the chant. If they had it would have been a very bad moment for the KKK, at least psychologically, as about 40% of the crowd was Black. It was obvious that the media was very disappointed by this development as they focused their attention, including three television cameras from three different stations, on the six chanters. The six Blacks tired quickly once they realized that they were going to get no help, and then one made a little speech for the cameras about how his blood flowed red when he was cut just like White folks. But the thought immediately occurred to me that a cow's blood flows red when it is cut, so what was the point. Apparently the media got a similar impression of pointlessness and turned back to the four KKK demonstrators.

NO STORY

There were at least 50 media people there, all desperate for a story. But there was no story. What to do? Can we go back to our bosses empty handed? No, never. So they made up a story. And though I only saw one newspaper account and one TV account I would be willing to bet that they all made up the same story: that the surprisingly large crowd was there to protest the KKK. Yes, that is a story that will please our masters and make the news. Does it bother the reporters that it was false? Apparently not. After all, the game is to get ahead and you don't get ahead by coming back without a story.

In fact there was a good bit of sympathy in the crowd for White Nationalism and the press could easily have reported that, but didn't. After a while, I began to talk to one of the locals from Tilghman Island, a man in his late twenties. He asked me where I was from as he could tell I was not from around there. I told him that I was with a racist group from Gaithersburg, and he asked me what we were after. I said that we wanted separate nations for Black and White and he seemed to agree so I gave him some NDF literature; and as we continued to talk two of his friends asked for literature, and then four other younger men came by and asked for some.

A mulatto female TV reporter from Baltimore saw what was going on and asked for literature so I gave her our Twin Evils leaflet and a copy of The Nationalist. The first sentence of the leaflet apparently confused her as it was about rejecting the materialism of capitalism and communism. Well, her eyes said, what did this have to do with hating niggers? She asked me to summarize. I told her that if she could read then she should do so. But she didn't. No doubt she filed the same report as the rest.

THE WEST POINT LIE

I began to understand that the media was institutionally dishonest when I was in West Point. In each of the four years I was there the New York Times did a story about Academy reform. Each year it was essentially the same story with only the names of the military spokesmen changing. The gist of the story was that West Point was changing its leadership practice and that steps were being taken to eliminate hazing. The Times reporter would come to the Academy for an afternoon and would be treated like royalty while he interviewed the Commandant, the Superintendent, the Cadet First Captain and a couple of other cadets specially chosen for the occasion. He would be shown the latest vague regulations against hazing and he would go back to New York fatter, drunker, and more deluded than when he arrived. But amazingly none of these reporters ever stopped by the hamburger joint where cadets hang out (the only one on post) to ask real cadets what they thought of the system. Some would have told the truth if they had been promised the anonymity that the press always extends to its high level sources.

The hazing was as extensive and as brutal in my last year as it was in my first. And in fact, it had not changed much since the days when the plebe Douglas McArthur was put inside a metal locker and slid down the stairs. Psychological hazing was all the rage when I was at the Academy, but physical hazing was still ever present. For example, plebes were required to brace against a wooden locker with a nickel placed between the back of the neck and the locker. They would stand at attention in that position until their sweat stuck the nickel to the locker or until they collapsed. The tall plebes would often collapse because when they locked their knees to stay upright the blood flow to the head would be cut off.

It was the same at the other Academies as well. A friend of mine from high school attended the Naval Academy where they would run the plebes in the hall until they fell. At one point an upperclassman tapped on my friend's chest with his knuckle, in a form of Chinese water torture, until my friend collapsed.

In our military, the official regulations are often designed to cover the activity that the administration really wants to take place. The real regulations are not written, but rather they are oral and atmospheric. The vicious harassment of underclassmen exists because this is what the brass wants, and if "discipline" falters the officers harass the upperclassmen in order to get them to harass the underclassmen. Military reporters know this, so why do they not report the truth? Because they do not want to be cut off from their high level official and unofficial sources. There is here an unspoken conspiracy of self-interest operating in which one hand rubs the other. Criticism will only take place within certain limits and both sides know implicitly where the boundaries lie.

THE FAURISSON MANIPULATION

I and a friend once accompanied the famous revisionist historian, Robert Faurisson to the National Press Building in Washington D.C. for a press conference in which he would explain to American reporters why, after years of research, he had concluded that the Jewish story of the "Holocaust" was an historical lie.

Later we went down to the office of an Arab magazine in the same building with an American reporter who wrote for the Saudi publication. This reporter quickly wrote an account of the press conference and was about to wire it when I asked to see it. The account was completely false and I said this to the reporter. He replied, "Of course its false, but this is what they want to read." So the Arabs got to read this reporter's fictional account of Robert Fauris-son's supposed views on Jewish lies and the Palestinian problem.

A few days later Faurisson, was invited to New York by Mike Wallace. CBS 60 Minutes staff in Europe had told Wallace that Faurisson was an excellent story for the show. Faurisson sat down with Wallace for about an hour and explained his research and his views. Faurisson told me that Wallace (a Jew) was impressed, but that he had to consult with his staff. So he brought in five other Jews who made up his top staff. Faurisson again went over his story and in a very tense atmosphere these Jews rejected it as a piece for 60 Minutes. It is in such fashion that the news is ideologically manipulated on a daily basis. These Jews decided that Americans should not hear how Jews have been lying to them. Faurisson was too good; there was no way that they were going to let this brilliant and endearing little Frenchman on American TV.

White Rebellion Rocks Georgia County

The winter winds of White rebellion swept through Forsyth County, Georgia, in January, and sent an icy chill down the spines of those who seek to turn the whole of America into an interracial supermarket run for the exclusive benefit of the Jews and their non-Jewish plutocratic allies. On two separate occasions the working people of this all-White community turned out in mass to protest the System's plans to destroy the racial purity of the county as a prelude to opening it up for economic exploitation.

Forsyth is a sleepy rural area of 38,000 souls, located less than an hour's drive from Atlanta. Physically, psychologically and socially it is as far removed as one can imagine from the sinkholes of racial decay and spiritual corruption which our cities have become. The cities are a racial goulash of Blacks, Hispanics, Jews, Asians and deracinated Whites. Forsyth is all White. The cities are slick, sick, dirty, frantic, and cynical; Forsyth County is a clean, quiet, easygoing place, whose inhabitants believe in values and practice a way of life most other White people have long since abandoned.

In 1912, an outraged White populace forcibly drove out the few Negroes living there in the wake of a brutal rape-slaying of a White woman by Blacks just across the county line. One Forsyth County Black was lynched in the expulsion, and the rest got the message loud and clear. Right down to the present, the county has been largely bypassed by the racial and social decay which has infected so much of America.

But now the capitalists want to make Forsyth an integral part of Atlanta's dreary urban sprawl. As elsewhere, the first step in the process of economic rape is the destruction of the racial, social and cultural homogeneity of the community by the infusion of Blacks into the area.

The effort to integrate Forsyth against the will of its inhabitants got underway on January 17, when former Martin Luther King protege Hosea Williams attempted to lead an interracial column on a "brotherhood" march through the county. The marchers had first been invited by some local businessmen, who doubtlessly saw Black immigration as nothing more than an excellent method of increasing their number of customers.

The havoc to the racial and social fabric of their community which such a demographic catastrophe would occasion did not seem to occur at first to the profit-blinded entrepreneurs, although they quickly withdrew the invitation when word of the march stirred vehement protest throughout the county. The date of the march, chosen in deliberate proximity to the national holiday honoring the despised Black agitator, fueled local resentment. One white woman told businessman Charles Blackburn, who originally planned the event, "I just don't think it's a good idea for you to try to get the niggers up here. They's why we live in Forsyth County-- to get away from them." Another woman candidly told a Black reporter, "I wouldn't want you to live next to me, and that's just being honest." The same general sentiments were voiced by the county's menfolk, only in somewhat stronger language.

ANGRY WHITE CROWD HALTS MARCH

On the day of the first march, an angry White crowd of 300, led by local Ku Klux Klansmen and other White racial activists, greeted Williams and his 75 companions with howls of derision and a barrage of rocks, bottles, and mud. A cordon of 70 police officers was unable to protect the column from the infuriated White counter demonstration, and halfway through the route the march was stopped. Williams whined to the sympathetic news media that the violence was "as bad as Selma, as bad as South Africa." The halting of this march was one of the few clearcut victories which White people have won over the forces of racial destruction in the past 20 years. It was especially significant in that it marked one of the rare occasions in which an aroused White populace and effective local leadership by White racialists came together at a single moment. It was the formula for White victory, and the ensuing media outrage served to emphasize that the System itself is aware how dangerous to its schemes this combination can be. Eight Whites had been arrested for violence, seven of them Forsyth County residents. Following the breakup of the "brotherhood" march, a victory rally was held by the Klan, in which the crowd, now swollen to more than 500, celebrated their triumph.

White residents of Forsyth County join with local Movement activists to turn back integrationist demonstration.

WHITES DEFY SYSTEM INTIMIDATION

Determined that their defeat would not go unavenged, the marchers announced a return engagement for the following Saturday. Some 20,000 Blacks and renegade Whites dutifully trooped in from Atlanta on January 24, bolstered by statements of support by the governor and other politicians, and braced by sympathetic editorializing in the news media. Among those present were Coretta Scott King, Black comedian Dick Gregory, and former (and future) Democratic presidential hopeful Gary Hart. The second march was protected by 1,500 Georgia National Guardsmen and 700 police officers.

This massive show of force (the marchers and their protectors totaled well over half the entire population of the county) was designed to intimidate the rebellious Whites. As such, it was a complete failure.

A second counter-demonstration greeted the marchers, and this time some 1,000 hostile Whites were present. Rebel flags snapped proudly in the chill winter skies, and repeated cries of "White Power" split the air. And far from being cowed, the mood of the crowd was boisterous and defiant. Three out-of-state racist organizers were arrested for blocking a roadway when they symbolically tried to stop the march.

If not for the presence of the heavily-armed guardsmen and police officers, the second march would have ended much the same as the first. The Washington Post concluded its story on the second march with this paragraph:

"When the marchers had departed, a 30 year-old Atlanta construction worker who once lived here started to leave. 'They'll say they won,' said the man, who asked not to be identified, 'and we'll say we won, because this county will still be all White, and that's the way it'll be for the next 100 years.'"

Maybe, and maybe not. Certainly the forces of racial disintegration are not going to roll over and play dead because a few Georgia farmers threw rocks at them. But the White victory won in Forsyth County can be consolidated, and similar victories can be won elsewhere whenever the White Nationalist Movement can be joined to open rebellion on the part of a sizeable segment of the White population. Only by winning a significant percentage of the White population to the cause of White Revolution can there be any hope that the enemies of our Race can be defeated.

WHITE UNITY THE KEY TO VICTORY

Our enemies have always sought to defeat us by dividing the White racial community and turning it against itself: man against woman, youngster against adult, employer against employee, Northerner against Southerner. And always they have tried to keep the White Nationalist Movement separated from the broad masses of racially-aware Whites. When this happens, every White rebellion, as glorious as it may be during the brief moment when it flares, is doomed to eventual defeat. But when a White revolutionary cadre which is ideologically cohesive and which possesses a sound revolutionary strategy can be linked to popular White resentment, the possibility for significant and far-reaching White victories occurs. This prospect terrifies the system, which is why it strives so mightily to prevent this from happening. That it did occur, at least temporarily and on a small scale, in Forsyth County, is a cause for the greatest optimism. MMc case. Since Currin is notoriously stupid this seemed to be a good move. But Dees asked to be appointed Special Prosecutor to aid Currin and the judge granted this strange request in a trial that can only be described as a procedural circus. So now Dees was prosecuting the Millers with the full weight of government resources behind him.

To illustrate what this means, two of the main witnesses against Glenn Miller were convicts serving time in prison. Dees could now offer both leniency if they agreed to testify against Miller. Please show us the criminal that would not take such a deal, and say anything he had to in order to get such a deal. One of them, a one armed man, testified that Glenn Miller offered to pay him $50,000 if he would steal certain arms from a Marine base. Miller testified that he had never seen the man before, and that he would likely remember him if he had, since he had only one arm. But it was to no avail. The jury found that the Millers were running a paramilitary organization and the judge sentenced both to prison terms which are now being appealed. The judge also forbade the Millers from having any contact with the WPP, former WPP members or other racist organizations.

This gag order reveals the System's real aim in this case which is to take Glenn Miller out of politics. Why? Because Miller could put anywhere from 300 to 500 men in camouflage uniforms on the streets marching with military precision, and such a rapidly growing racist political force scared the Establishment. So they crushed it.

A NEW DAWN IN CAROLINA

Mark Twain once said, "The reports of my death have been greatly exaggerated." So too with Carolina racialism. The second line officers of the WPP, Cecil Cox and Gordon Gray, picked up the flag of the Movement and drove forward, proving that they are first rate political leaders though cut from a different mold than that of Glenn Miller. Cox and Gray disbanded the WPP and formed the Southern National Front (SNF).

The SNF produces an excellent newspaper called Frontline and preaches racial idealism rather than nigger-baiting. The SNF is at present smaller than the White Patriot Party was last year because the summer soldiers were frightened off by the big hammer that the System brought down on the WPP. The wheat was separated from the chaff and the best of the WPP joined the SNF which is now growing rapidly. The SNF has dropped the camouflage uniforms of the WPP for SNF T-shirts in a statement that is meant to discourage those who want to play soldier. The SNF is now looking only for those who are serious about White political revolution. The message is that the bluff and the games are over, now it is time for the hard work of political organizing. And North Carolina

White workers and students united in the White Nationalist struggle.

Gordon Gray introduces Gary Gallo to the Southern National Front.

White Nationalism in Carolina particularly in the small towns, is excellent ground for such work.

THE MARCH

Marches played a large part in the political strategy of the WPP and the same will be true for the SNF. Every year the Raleigh march and rally on the Martin Luther King holiday weekend acts as a show of strength for the White Nationalist Movement in North Carolina. Last year the WPP put close to 500 people on the streets for the march.

This year, a week before the Raleigh march, Sam Currin announced the indictment of Steve Miller and four other former WPP members for allegedly stealing weapons from a Marine base. The timing was no doubt planned to disrupt the march. In announcing the indictments on the CBS News, Dan Rather could not contain his glee and declared that this finished the racist movement in North Carolina.

But he was wrong. The Raleigh march and rally went off as planned, and despite the new arrests and despite the cold rain that fell that day, nearly 100 people showed up to march and support the SNF. Also remarkable was the number of women and children who marched. Gone were the precise rows of military men marching in step. They were replaced by ordinary White people with an unbreakable spirit and a renewed determination to prevail in the struggle against the System. The cold rain served to stiffen their jaws and heighten their sense of sacrifice and accomplishment.

THE RALLY

The SNF marched to the Confederate Memorial in downtown Raleigh where speeches were given in front of two beautiful, full color banners painted for the occasion by artist Will Williams. The banners represented the two themes of the march which were support of the Afrikaner Resistance Movement of South Africa and tribute to Robert E. Lee.

A determined young flag-bearer of the Southern National Front.

A lovely supporter of the Southern National Front.

Cecil Cox acted as master of ceremonies and attacked Sam Currin and Morris Dees, derisively pointing out Dees' administrative assistant who was naturally amongst the spectators. Dees and the System are very afraid of the power of White Nationalism and always keep close watch.

Cecil then introduced Dave Holland, the firebrand KKK leader from Georgia who helped turn back an NAACP demonstration in Cumming the previous day. Dave excited the crowd with his rendition of events in Forsyth County, Georgia.

Gordon Gray then spoke on the march's two themes. He praised the efforts of Eugene Terre Blanche, the leader of the Afrikaner Resistance Movement which embarrassed the governing National Party of South Africa by seizing and holding the stage of its last party congress with 3000 activists. The National Party is a plutocratic party in the mold of our Republican and Democratic parties and is gradually selling out the White Race in South Africa. Gordon also paid tribute to Robert E. Lee who was offered the top post in the Union Army by Abraham Lincoln, but rejected it to fight with his own people.

Bill Harvey, an SNF leader from South Carolina, spoke on what the System has done to family life in this country, and he decried the government's pointless and callous sacrifice of our young in Vietnam.

The final speech was given by Gary Gallo of the National Democratic Front. He roused the crowd against the White ruling class that has betrayed its own people for profit. He further urged all White Nationalist activists to become Political Soldiers - men of honor and courage who will command the respect of the people through their action and sacrifice, rather than through words.

After the speeches the marchers fell into line and headed back to the assembly point chanting "White Power", and "We're White, We're Right, We won't give up the Fight." At the end Cecil thanked one and all for showing despite the adversity. A collection was taken by the chaplain Wayne Honeycutt and loads of SNF T-Shirts were sold.

We can report that White Nationalism is alive and well in North Carolina. And it looks like a banner year for the Movement all round. 66

Personal Note on the Media

THE LIE IS IN THE EDIT

At the age of 29 I owned six legal clinics employing eight attorneys, eight secretaries and two paralegals. We advertised on television to the tune of $3000 per week and so we were the target of considerable media attention. At one point I gave a 45 minute interview to a TV reporter who was himself a lawyer. He obviously did not like the legal clinic concept and felt that I was betraying my fellow attorneys by undercutting their outrageous prices for routine legal services. Nevertheless, I felt that the interview went very well as I handled each hostile question adeptly. This is because I and my brother had spent four hours the previous day anticipating likely questions and practicing answers on videotape. As the reporter left my office his Black cameraman, who apparently did not like the twit, winked at me and said "Good job."

But when I saw the piece on the news that evening my 45 minute interview had been edited to 11 seconds in a way that flabbergasted me. The 11 seconds was spliced in such a way that they had me answering a question in direct contradiction to the way I had actually answered during the interview. The reporter used an answer to another question and spliced it onto the first part of my answer to distort my response so it would fit with the theme of his piece. Moreover, the splice was not clear to the audience because my head was roughly in the same position on both questions. This was sleazy and dishonest, and it was standard journalism.

Even Fred Friendly, the Jewish former head of CBS News, complained that this same thing was once done to him by a Chicago TV news reporter after his retirement. Everyone who I have talked to who has had personal experience with the media complains or at least comments on its distortions. For the American press truth is not the goal, and in fact, truth is often seen as an obstacle to getting a "good story", that is a story that is both exciting and ideologically acceptable to the powers that be.

THE TRUTH WILL PREVAIL

In a way, this is a good thing for us. For example, the hundreds of people who attended the Easton demonstration now know that the media lie, and that is good. The press seeks to protect the System that has enriched it with a body-guard of lies. But each lie further undermines the already waning support of the masses for the Establishment. If we stick to the truth, it is we who will one day garner the respect and the support of the people, and that will mean the end for the System.

You, the reader, can help us in this by correcting us when we print inaccurate information. Normally, we must rely on press accounts of events as we do not yet have our own news service. LETTERS

Dear Mr. Gallo:

I hope you will consider my suggestions and think about my observations. I am glad to see another "White Rights" group on the scene. Our brainwashed and exploited race needs all the help it can get to save it before it is too late. David Duke and the NAAWP is trying to distance itself from groups that may carry a violence label rightly or wrongly pinned on them by the media. Whatever one thinks about David Duke, he is out there getting the message across (all things considered).

As you have so aptly said in your newspaper the races are different. Also, there are differing ethnic groups within each race. So, it also follows that different nations made up of these separate groups should have governments structured to their needs. It has often been stated that America is great because it is a melting pot of European peoples. This may be a strength but it also makes it hard for us to cooperate with one another and not be distrustful of one another. So I think the checks and balances system of government suits the ethnic mix we have in America. I grew up in New York City where we learned to distrust Mics, Wops, Pollocks and all Roman Catholics. White groups in America must stress White unity or their won't be Whites of any kind left someday.

Right or wrong most of this country was settled with the idea of "Making it big" and that Horatio Alger attitude is too much a part of our mental make-up to put aside. So room must be left in a revitalized America for that dream. It is powerful and has led to great achievements; also great suffering. With the proper regulation, I believe, the suffering can be alleviated and our society can still reap the benefits.

Another part of the dream, and one which has taken really taken a beating, is the idea that my children will have it better than I do. The idea of no inheritance will not go over in America. The family farm passed down through the generations is the backbone and the guts of our agricultural system. The family business is also important in America. I am quick to agree that robber baron family wealth achieved through underhanded practices should be confiscated and the Rockefeller, Melons, Bronskys and the like should be sent packing.

I think your ideas for solutions to White problems may be successful in Europe, but will have tough sledding in the United States. Our "Right Wing" has a great love of our Constitution, Declaration of Independence, and American mythos as I do. The trouble is our founding fathers never envisioned political parties, multinational corporations, alien-controlled media, and took it for granted that when they were speaking of man it would always be understood to be White. These problems can all be solved by Constitutional amendments. This will take place during or after the next great depression. People will take power to rid the U.S. of its social diseases and then after educating the White populace, set the nation back on its true course.

While I do not agree with your solutions to America's problems, I think your little newspaper is first-rate and very informative. Please try to keep it scholarly and factual. Please restrain, and I must stress this, from sounding what liberals call prejudiced and bigoted; although liberals are just that - prejudiced and bigoted. It is precisely these misguided, brainwashed fools (and I was one) that we must win over.

Let me make a suggestion about your calling cards. I really like your logo. I distribute many calling cards for Duke's National Association for the Advancement of White People and one of my favorite spots is over the instruction panels in phone booths. The NAAWP's is just the right size and thickness to snap right over Ma Bell's message. Also the name and address appear together on the side I display. You might consider making your writing smaller on the reverse side and including the name and address of the organization.

Learn from the mistakes of others. There will be U.S. government agents that will infiltrate your organization and try to incite you to acts of violence...but violence here in America will kill your movement - avoid it. All you have to do is keep your powder dry. When the economic collapse comes you will have all the violence you can imagine, defending yourself and your race. It may come tomorrow, next month, or next year but it is coming soon. Be ready, things will change.

Very sincerely yours,
George Streicher

Editor- You are a conservative who happens to be a racist, that is very different from being nationalist as we are. Modern conservatism is, along with modern liberalism, an offshoot of the 18th century philosophy of individualism called classical liberalism. The only difference between the two is that liberals feel guilty about embracing the barren doctrine of self-interest and so seek to make some minor atonements. While conservatives will only give up some of their power or wealth in order to forestall revolution. The leaders of the first American revolution were elitist individualists who had very little idea of what they wanted to do once they won the revolution other than to maintain their power (they called it freedom) over the society. As is usually the case, they made better revolutionaries than they did political leaders and the first political concoction they came up with (the Articles of Confederation) was so absurd that they later illegally seized the opportunity to overthrow it (as revolutionaries are wont to do) and substituted in its place the Constitution which was only slightly less ridiculous and which led to the horrific bloodletting of the Civil War a mere 70 years after it was signed. I am impressed as little with the philosophy of these people as with their political wisdom.

If you believe in the Constitution and the individualist and elitist philosophy that it professes then I suggest you join the System and fight from within, but please do not join us. Right now the NF in Britain is engaged in the third, and hopefully last, phase of an internal struggle between revolutionaries and reactionaries (also called Racist Tories). In the first phase, the revolutionary wing of the Party achieved the ouster of John Tyndall, in the second the ouster of Martin Webster, and in the third it will rid itself of the last vestiges of conservatism or it will die. This was inevitable for the NF because the Party was launched by conservatives. The MDF on the other hand has been created by revolutionary nationalists, and we will do everything we can to prevent conservatives from infiltrating into the leadership of our Movement. Conservatism is based on self-seeking and nationalism is based on self-sacrifice - there can be no healthy synthesis of the two if our new order is to become great and remain so. We are not fighting this revolution so that we end up back at the same place two hundred years hence. We will eradicate the worship of the individual just as surely, and as completely, as Catholicism destroyed the worship of Odin and Islam eliminated the worship of Zoaster.

In regard to your secondary points, I have Duke's business card and though I do not like its message, your point about the address is well taken. Duke has achieved notable success in getting on TV and radio but has been unable to capitalize on that ability. We too will get on TV and radio but it will be done in a different fashion. We will not go to the media before we are a force to be reckoned with, otherwise we would look pitiful and ridiculous. Until then we will speak through our own organs, one of which will be a public access cable TV show with a round robin format such as that of Agronsky & Co. or The McLaughlin Report. If our financial resources continue to improve as they have been we should be able to air such a monthly show beginning sometime in 1987.

Your objection to the confiscation of a decedent's estate has been made by many others, and we may have to reconsider this point in the Program.

Dear Kinsmen,

I received the literature you sent on Oct. 28th and I thank you. Perhaps our ranks are not expanding as quickly as we wish, but the caliber of people entering the White survival movement is encouraging. Your publications have a polish and professionalism that has been missing in so many previous endeavors. The presentation of constructive alternatives to the present corrupt system is also a welcome change from the reactionary past.

On behalf of myself and the other Brueder Schweigen, thank you for the moral support. Much of the whole story of the Brueder Schweigen must necessarily remain untold, and thus subject to the smears and lies of ZOG. For the time being I just hope that all loyal kinsmen will take my word that when the roll call of heroes of our Race is called, one Robert Jay Mathews will be among the first called. One day when security is no longer a deterrent, the full and true story of this incredible man will be told.

Meanwhile, I remain yours for the survival of our people and a future for our White children, Editor- We are all striving hard to bring about our victory as soon as possible. We anxiously await the day when we can set our captured soldiers free.

As you have noticed our writing is a bit "upscale" because we are trying to attract bright youngsters into our Movement and trying to provide them with an ideology that will sustain them in the tough times ahead. Once we have built a cadre of extraordinary officers, the masses will follow. Our Race always responds to good leadership, and it is that which we have lacked in the past. Robert Mathews was the beginning of a new wave of leaders and his sacrifice has inspired us all. We intend to make our revolution through the electoral process in the manner of the German, Italian, and Romanian nationalist movements, but by no means do we criticize the Brueder Schweigen for choosing another way. We understand that some can be patient no longer and that they must follow their hearts. This is as it should be, for who knows which method shall work in the end.

DO WE REALLY NEED A GREAT DEPRESSION?

MANY RACIALISTS say that our Movement will only succeed if there is another Great Depression, or some similar catastrophe. They say that Americans must suffer greatly before they will reject the System and support White Revolution. We do not believe that.

HOW MUCH did our revolutionary forefathers suffer before they rose up against the British? Most of the leaders of the American Revolution were well to do plantation owners and middle class lawyers. They suffered little. The French Revolution was a middle class uprising led mostly by lawyers. How much did these lawyers suffer at the hands of the Bourbon kings? Very little. In fact, economic hardship is only one factor in the causation of revolutions, and a much overrated factor at that.

THE AMERICAN people will revolt when they realize that their leaders have betrayed them and are out to exploit their positions to plunder the country. Once the people understand that the political System is inherently corrupt and not dedicated to the interests of the Nation, they will look for an alternative. Our job is to tell them the truth and to organize them for revolution when they begin to see the light. Our enemies are masters of deception and they control most of the means of communication, so our mission is not an easy one. But we must have a national revolutionary organization in being and operating, so that when the people do turn, they will turn to us and not to the Communists and not to political or religious charlatans.

ONE NEVER knows what the future holds, so we must be prepared for any eventuality. There could be a revolution 5 years from now or one 50 years from now. We should remember that in 1916 Lenin told his tiny band of Bolsheviks in Switzerland that "We must recognize that we will not see a revolution in Russia in our lifetimes." Yet, a year later the Bolsheviks took power in Russia. Even a professional revolutionary cannot predict when his time will come. But when it does come he had better be ready for it because most do not get a second chance. The NDF will be ready when its time arrives.
