Western Media Covered for Mandela

What a wealth of information it is that is coming out about Winnie Mandela now that the Communist African National Congress (ANC) has sought to have her ostracized from the antiapartheid movement. It seems that Winnie has been conducting her own little reign of terror in Soweto over the past two years. Since May of 1987, she has been kidnapping and torturing Blacks, mostly teenagers, who have opposed her arbitrary leadership and lavish lifestyle. Such terror is in the Communist tradition, but it became an embarrassment when antiapartheid

Blacks had to turn to the White police to investigate the torture-murder of a 14-year-old by Mandela and her bodyguards, the United Mandela soccer team. When on February 15th, the police found the body of the boy, Stompie Moeketsi Seipei, the ANC moved against Winnie Mandela. And once the Communists attacked her, the capitalist press took its cue and began to release two years worth of previously suppressed reports on her. Isn't it interesting how these two supposedly hostile ideological movements so often march in step with one another. Both are determined to destroy the White race and White nationalist rule the world over, and for this objective they can lay aside their minor differences.

The ANC is lead by Joe Slovo, Oliver Tambo, and Nelson Mandela, Winnie's husband. Nelson Mandela, or Comrade Nelson as the ANC refers to him, is a self-professed Communist who is still in prison for attempting to overthrow the government by violence in 1962. Tambo has been coy in the past about his Communist membership, but in 1987 he admitted indirectly to the magazine Human Events in an interview that he was, indeed, a Communist. Slovo is the Jew who really calls the shots in the so-called "Black nationalist" movement that the Communists are running in order to overthrow White power in South Africa. Not only is Slovo the head of the military wing of the ANC, but he is also the current head of the South African Communist Party. So we have Communist Jews on the one side and capitalist Jews on the other cooperating with South African and American Blacks to destroy the Afrikaners caught in the middle. A tidy package.

COMMUNIST FRONT GROUPS

In Communist fashion, the ANC operates through fronts in South Africa, the three most important of which are the United Democratic Front (UDF - a legal political party), the Congress of South African Trade Unions, and the South African Council of Churches (SACC). Such fronts almost always succeed in getting good capitalist press. The ANC assigned the UDF and Congress of Trade Unions to carry the big stick against Winnie, and it was they who announced that she was no longer welcome in the antiapartheid movement on February 16th. Then the ANC used the SACC to offer the carrot to Mandela, and it announced that since Winnie agreed to dismantle her "soccer team", she was welcome back into the movement. The ANC's announcements from its headquarters in Lusaka, Zambia were typically disingenuous. At first it said, hypocritically, that Winnie was not a leader in the ANC (though everyone thought she was one of its leading spokespersons), that she was only a member, and so it really had no role to play in the matter. Then, when Mandela disbanded her soccer team terrorists, the ANC announced that it welcomed her back into the "Black nationalist movement." The capitalists and communists lie as a matter of course, so it is hard for them to keep their deceptions straight.

MEDIA COVER-UP

The sheer quantity and the quality of the information released about Winnie Mandela's activities by the press on February 18th was stunning. Most of this news was reported in the South African press as it happened, but almost all of it is new to Americans. What follows is a sampling of the revelations:

In September of 1988, two teenaged boys testified in a Johannesburg court that on May 26, 1987, they were accused of being "sell-outs" and were abducted to Winnie Mandela's house where members of the "soccer club" used a knife to carve on the chest and thigh of one of the youths the words "Viva ANC" and the letter "M". The bodyguards beat one and then poured acid on his wounds, before Winnie decided to serve him cake and tea.

Since that time local residents repeatedly complained to the police of kidnapping and torture by Mandela. At one point the police searched her house and confiscated a machine pistol and an AK 47 assault rifle but no charges were brought.

Mandela used church funds to build herself a palatial, California-style ranch house in Soweto. She was criticized for this in May of 1987 by church leaders, and the house caused much resentment in the Black township. In July of 1988, while Winnie was away, a mob of Black youths burned the house out and the neighbors refused to intervene to save it. The trigger to this incident was apparently the recent rape of a schoolgirl by Mandela's bodyguards.

Mandela hired an "American" entrepreneur, Robert Brown, to market her name internationally. This upset her husband and the ANC who rebuked her for it. In September of 1987, Winnie further embarrassed the ANC when she declared in a televised speech, "With our matchboxes and necklaces, we shall liberate the nation." At the time, the ANC was trying to pretend, with the full cooperation of the Western media, that it was not responsible for the brutal murder of Blacks who supported the South African government. In a blatant bit of cynicism the Washington Post said the statement was "ill-timed." The plutocrats apparently do not mind the torture and murder of pro-government Blacks, but when Winnie started killing antiapartheid Blacks, well then she just went too far.

THE BEGINNING OF THE END FOR WINNIE

On the night of December 29, 1988, Mandela ordered her bodyguards to kidnap four teenagers from a church shelter for children. The four were whipped and beaten into confessing that they were being sexually abused at the shelter. One fought back, Stompie Sei-

pei. He was further tortured until he confessed that he had once been an informer for the government at age 11, a fact that was well known in the community. The antiapartheid movement had already forgiven Seipei for his transgression, but Mandela sought to use it against him. One of the four kidnapped youths escaped, and the other two were released after Mandela negotiated with the shelter, but Seipei was so badly beaten that Mandela called in a doctor, Dr. Abubaker Asvat, to examine him. The next day Stompie Seipei's throat was slit in an execution-style murder, and Dr. Asvat was shot dead by two Black men at his clinic. So far the South African police have arrested two of Mandela's bodyguards in the murder of Seipei, and two unnamed men in the murder of Asvat. Mandela's house was searched and bloody garments were found, but as yet the police have not charged the "mother of the revolution." 66

Duke Campaign Sends Plutocrats Into Panic

Former Nazi and Klansman David Duke, running as a Republican, has won his bid for election to the Louisiana state legislature by 227 votes in the run-off against Republican John Treen. In the preliminary voting in January, the System and its media sought to ignore Duke, just as they did in his 1988 Presidential bid, hoping that the result would be the same and Duke would once again disappear. But out of 9 Republican candidates on the special election ballot, Duke received a surprising 33% of the vote. Only 19% voted for Treen. The Jews recognized that they were in trouble, and they panicked.

Jews contribute more than 25% of all the funds given to the Republican Party, so when they yell "Jump froggy!", froggy jumps. The Jewish Anti-Defamation League whipped the Republican Party into such a frenzy to defeat Duke that it proved embarrassing to Treen. The ADL got both President Bush and former-President Reagan to do commercials for Treen. Both pretended to know Treen in the commercials. Lee Atwater, the cynical political manager who now heads the Republican Party, said that he was going to go all out to discredit Duke. Atwater and the Jews poured tens-of-thousands of dollars into the race. Duke ran his campaign on a shoe-string, as is always the case with racialists.

Despite chilly, wet weather 78% of the registered voters turned out to vote. This is the highest turnout ever recorded in a race for state legislature, and it reinforces what we have been saying all along: that the people do not vote because they are disaffected with this System that gives them no choice, and that they will vote once they are given real alternatives. The normal turnout for such a local vote is between 20% and 30%.

ERRORS COMPOUNDED

The Jews do not think coolly and rationally when the game goes against them. It is astonishingly easy to cause them to lose their balance and self-control. They are not a disciplined people and this will be their undoing in the end. Their national character revealed itself once again in the Duke affair. If they had only ignored Duke, he could have been ostracized and isolated in the state legislature; and if he was thereby made ineffective, conventional means would have sufficed to oust him in the next election. But the Jews do not have the patience or self-confidence for such tactics. They see every threat, however minor, as dire. So they lost their heads, and then, once their strategy of overwhelming Duke backfired, they further compounded the error by getting Atwater to announce that Duke would be "excommunicated" from the Republican Party. And then a Republican Jewish accountant named David Sherman announced that he was going to challenge Duke's residency in Jefferson Parish (where Duke has lived for more than 10 years). One can well imagine how the voters in that parish felt about the attempts to undo their will. Bush, sensing the outrage at such manipulation, said at a press conference on February 21st that some might feel his intervention in the Jefferson Parish race "improper", but that he did it because Duke was a "racist and a bigot". Actually, he did it because the ADL lit a fire under his butt, and the folks in Louisiana smelled the smoke, much to Bush's chagrin.

COOLER HEADS

Republican Congressman Newt Gingrich reacted much more cleverly to Duke's election than did the leaders of his plutocratic party. Gingrich appeared with Duke on the television show Nightline on February 20th, and he twice suggested to Duke that his past sins would be forgiven if he would just sell out and play ball in the future.

Will Duke pull a George Wallace? That is hard to say. He ran a very strange campaign. His platform is basically that of Hubert Humphrey in 1968. He says he wants equal rights for everybody, and he reiterated that statement on Nightline. Does this mean that Duke will be satisfied once the quotas, forced busing, minority contracts and affirmative action programs are eliminated? Does he really want America to continue to be a mixed-race country? Apparently he does.

This is a long way from the message of Nazi George Lincoln Rockwell which Duke espoused as a student on the campus of LSU. Rockwell wanted America to a pure White nation. Everybody believes that Duke has a hidden agenda, and most everyone thinks that they know what Duke's real program is. Those that voted for him did so out of the belief that he is a White Power advocate, Nazi and Klansman. That is the only thing that most of them knew about Duke because that is all the System media told them. Duke's own election efforts were so small that they had to have had only a marginal impact. Yet, Duke denies that he is a White Power advocate. This is, indeed, a very strange game that he is playing. It certainly lends credibility to Gingrich's attempt to coopt Duke. It appears as if Duke is inviting such an offer. But Duke is a man of enormous personal ambition, and if he does sell out ala George Wallace, it will likely be for nothing less than the post of Governor or Senator and a secure future in one of the main parties.

Despite Duke's ideological and personal failings, his victory represents a major step forward for racialism if only because it proved such an embarrassment to the Plutocracy. It will encourage other racialists to run for office, and it will embolden the electorate to snub their noses at the System. The great taboo and atmosphere of fear that somehow intimidated voters has finally been broken. We look forward to the victories of more honest and radical White racialists, those whom we can truly call White Nationalist. GG

Bush's "New Ethics" Off to a Rocky Start

In 1980 Ronald Reagan pledged that his administration would wage war on waste, fraud and corruption in government. But over the next eight years the Reagan Administration lost more of its politically appointed officials to indictment for fraud and corruption than any previous administration, including Nixon's.

Now we have President George Bush pledging to a new ethics in government. But so far it looks like just more of the same institutionalized legal corruption, and Bush is naive if he thinks he can really change that. His selection to head the Health and Human Services Department, a Black man named Louis Sullivan, wanted to keep getting paid by Morehouse College while he was a Cabinet Secretary. His selection for Defense, former Senator John Tower, has a well-earned reputation for drunkenness and womanizing on Capitol Hill, and worse, he is in the pocket of the defense contractors who have paid him millions to represent their interests since he left the Senate. No doubt Tower will return to the defense contracting trough once his government "service" is completed.

Former Transportation Secretary James Burnley IV.

THE REVOLVING DOOR

John Tower's revolving door government service is part of the rule rather than the exception. The latest example of this sort of legal corruption to hit the press is James Burnley IV. In December of 1988, while Burnley was Transportation Secretary, he issued an important ruling for the benefit of Eastern Airlines without telling anyone that he was then negotiating for a position with the law firm that was representing Eastern. The ruling would normally have been handled by an assistant-secretary, but Burnley insisted upon deciding the matter himself. Will Bush stop this sort of legal corruption? Will he prevent John Tower from returning to the succour of the defense contractors when his tour is done? Not likely. It is this kind of hidden benefit that draws professional politicians into the government.

BAKER SEES THE LIGHT

On February 14th, Secretary of State James Baker III reversed himself and finally agreed to sell his stock in a bank holding company that lends to Third World countries. The holding company now has $4.5 billion in such outstanding loans. Baker apparently had trouble seeing the conflict of interest between his holding such stock and his determining what America's policy will be in regard to the Third World debt crisis. That was a hard one James!

Baker finally got Bush's message, but the same cannot be said for Bush's family. George's brother Prescott Bush, a real estate and development consultant, took advantage of his sibling's position to meet with Phillipine President Corazon Aquino in order to scare up some new business. In late February, Prescott will tour Asia for the same purpose. Coincidentally, Prescott's tour will precede George's tour through Asia by ten days. The White House is making excuses for Prescott's tour and meetings with high foreign officials, but George has not asked foreign officials to refuse to meet with Prescott when he calls on them.

Yes sir, this new ethics is tricky business. It's all those gray areas, you know. We sure do sympathize with you Georgie. It's difficult not to look like a hypocrite when you are the chief of a mighty plutocracy. GG

New America is the ideological and historical journal of the National Democratic Front. It exposes the half-truths, historical lies and hypocrisies upon which the present plutocratic System is based, and it reveals and explains the eternal principles of nationalism that guide the NDF. # SHORT BURSTS

Conservatism in Practice

In 1983, Reagan's Internal Revenue Service revoked the tax exemption of Bob Jones University, a church-related school, for operating in a racially segregated manner. But now for the first time, the IRS is attacking a church itself on the same grounds. In an unprecedented case, the Second Baptist Church of Goldsboro, North Carolina has been stripped of its tax exemption because it ran a racially segregated school. Such is the nature of the "Reagan Revolution" - conservatism in practice.

Health & Safety - Capitalist Style

In the early 1900's America was shocked by muckraking reporting on the meat industry. The reports on the filth and lack of sanitation in meat plants caused the government to establish an inspection bureaucracy within the Department of Agriculture. The Reagan Administration, led by former meat-industry lobbyist Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng, proposed that government inspection be done away with and that meat plants be put on an honor system. The Bush Administration has now reintroduced this most dangerous deregulation proposal.

In 1987, federal inspectors condemned 62 million birds as unfit to eat and impounded 12 million pounds of meat. In the fall of 1988, inspectors in eastern Tennessee wrote up 25 of 27 meat plants for health violations. In New Jersey and New York last year, 23 out of 33 plants were caught mishandling meat. So much for the honor system in a capitalist society. As a salmonella epidemic now rages in Britain, one might have thought the government would become more concerned with health in the meat industry. Apparently not.

Nationalists Stun Opponents in Vote

The resurgence of nationalism in West Germany grows ever stronger and more evident. On January 29th, the so-called "radical right-wing" Republikaner party (Republicans), led by former Waffen SS officer Franz Schoenhuber, shocked the German plutocracy by winning 8% of the vote in elections for the West Berlin city legislature. This victory entitles the Republicans to 11 seats in the city and 2 seats in the federal parliament in Bonn in 1990. A poll released by the respected Wickert Institute indicates the the Republicans would receive 11.5% of the national vote if elections were held now.

The Republicans ran on an anti-immigrant platform in West Berlin which now has over 300,000 Turkish residents. A fearful Socialist-controlled city legislature in Hamburg responded to the Republican victory by declaring its 120,000 Turkish immigrants eligible to vote in city elections, but the move is being challenged on constitutional grounds.

Over 5000 Germans attended a Republican victory celebration meeting in Cham, a city of 16,000 about 80 miles northeast of Munich. During his speech there Schoenhuber said, "Today's young generation of Germans is no more guilty for Auschwitz than the sons and daughters of Americans who committed genocide at Hiroshima and Nagasaki." The leader of West Germany's now tiny Jewish community, Heinz Galinski, attacked Schoenhuber as an anti-Semite.

A Violation of the Genocide Treaty?

In the last issue of The Nationalist we wrote of the raw hatred for Germans that is being spewed by the plutocratic and Jewish press. Well, the drumbeat goes on. A new book by Richard Bassett entitled Waldheim and Austria criticizes the Austrians and argues that pan-German and anti-Jewish sentiment are ready to emerge at any moment. We can only hope so.

The book met with the approval of Jewish reviewer for the Washington Post, Marc Fisher, who wrote that even though Bassett's work was based on "precious little firsthand reporting", it was, nevertheless, "a sometimes delightful, sometimes irresponsible, exquisitely British slam against an entire nation." We wonder if Fisher and the Jewish-owned Post would be just as delighted with a witty slam against Jewry. Some would say that a slam against an entire nationality is a violation of the Genocide Treaty to which Britain is a party. Do you think we will see a prosecution for criticism of the Austrians?

Jews Down in the Polls

The struggle between American Jews and Israeli Jews for dominance in their relationship will likely be fueled by the latest Washington Post-ABC news poll on the attitudes of Americans toward Israel. Public opinion about Jews and Jewry has always been very volatile, not only in the U.S. but everywhere in the world. And the Jews realize how

Mr. Gallo:

A "Short Burst" article in the February 1989 issue of The Nationalist prompts me to write. At the time of the Pan Am Flight 103 bombing I found it strange that no mention was made in the mass media on the similarities between it and the bombing of President Zia's plane only months earlier. Even though Americans were killed in the Zia plane bombing, all mention of it was dropped from the newspapers when rumors started that Israelis were involved.

I also found it strange that when CBS ran the piece on its nightly news that Syria was behind the Pan Am bombing, no other national network followed suit. I suspect you are aware that CBS's chairman donated over a million dollars during the last Israeli election.

Sincerely,
Robert Grooms

Dear NDF,

I am a teacher and subscriber to The Nationalist. Since I teach in a school that is 60-65% Black I shall not sign my name. May I comment on your educational reforms.

1. Your reading list is a good idea, but the only kids who are going to read from your list are those who have strong parental support. The majority of kids will not read even if given a list.

2. You raise a valid point about many highly trained people who could not teach because they lack being certified by the State. However, I support teacher certification. Have you ever checked into the requirements for being certified? They vary from state to state but are quite extensive - including grade points and making a certain score on the National Teachers Exam. As well as being observed while student teaching. Also many states will allow people without Education hours to teach in public schools under a plan called alternate certification. But teachers must be certified - would you trust your health to a doctor who wasn't certified by the state? Why should your child's education be any less important?

3. Forget about the NEA - it exists to help Black teachers and support liberal-minority causes. They are much more concerned with political matters than educational improvement. Do you realize that in some states (such as Arkansas) they charge $289.00 per year in dues?

4. Making the school day shorter will not allow for students to take 5 or 6 solid subjects which I feel should be the minimum load.

May I make the following suggestions:

1. American schools should require students to maintain a certain grade point to remain in school. The school should establish close links with the community, and the school should have a job placement department which will find a job for those kids who cannot or will not maintain the proper grade point average.

2. About the eighth grade begin to test students and try to separate them into college and non-college groups. Those who score high on the series of tests should be given advanced work to prepare them for college. And if they score high enough, they should get their college education for free. Those students who don't score high enough to qualify for receiving preparatory college work should be given tests to determine job skills and be trained for a particular job.

3. Streamline education. In many parts of the South every small town has a school system, and the result is big communities can offer their students better and more advanced courses than small towns can. How about one school per county rather than 3 to 5 schools per county.

I could go on and on, but it should be obvious that the above suggestions will not and probably cannot be implemented in a multiracial educational system. So the first order of business must be to return to separate school systems for different races.

very fragile their real support in the host population is, which is why they are constantly polling. The Washington Post-ABC poll began in October of 1981 and at that time only 24% of the Americans polled believed that Israel was an unreliable ally, and 64% said Israel was a trusted friend. As late as April of 1986, 54% still described Israel as a reliable ally, but the latest survey is bad news for the Jews. In 1989, 56% say that Israel is an unreliable ally, and 52% say that they have an unfavorable impression of Israel. American Jews believe that the swing in opinion is due to Israeli handling of the Intifada, and they are determined to pressure the Israelis into resolving the matter quickly.

MORE THAN JUST A NUMBER

Capitalism and Communism are both universalist ideologies that propagate the notion that man is merely the product of his economic environment, and that as one's economic position improves so does the individual. But, if this is so, then why are the social ills that plague our society not confined to the lower classes? Why is white collar crime and corruption as prevalent as blue collar theft and burglary? Do we not see addiction, broken families, suicide and perversity running rampant throughout the society? Decadence does not respect class, so can economics alone really be the answer to our social decay? We think not!

Man is more than just an economic animal, as the capitalists and communists would have us believe. And there is more to life than the collecting of toys and financial securities. Man needs to have an identity and a purpose - a reason for living. Young people so often ask themselves three questions: "Who am I? What am I? Why am I here?" Capitalism and Communism provide no answers. Nationalism does! As Nationalists we see man as more than a social security number with so much credit and debit. We see man as an extension and integral part of his people and nation.

Most people refer to the U.S. and U.S.S.R. as nations, but they are nothing of the sort. They are little more than economic policies. A nation is the racial, cultural, moral and ethical cohesion of a people, and is not a mixed bag of raceless, genderless interchangeable parts. Try to describe an American beyond saying that an American is a capitalist. What is an American? What is American culture? The sad fact is that these things cannot be described.

Under Democratic Nationalism the New American will be White and proud of it. His culture will be that of Western civilization. He will be conscious of his long and most glorious history, and he will celebrate and honor his European customs and traditions. He will be determined to achieve excellence and to continue to advance the most sophisticated civilization in the world. The New American will know who he is, what he is, and why he is here!
