"I knew I would not live to see the victory which I would make possible. But I would not die before I had made that victory certain."

(Commander Rockwell, This Time the World, Chap. XIII, p.310)

Martyrdom and Victory

When that cowardly assassin pulled the trigger on that tragic, black Friday, 25 August 1967, he probably fancied that he was ending the political career of the greatest National Socialist, the greatest anti-Communist and the greatest champion of the Aryan Race since Adolf Hitler. And in a certain sense he was probably right.

Yet in another sense this foul traitor, acting as an agent of international Jewry and world Communism, was deluding himself. For the historical personality of Commander Rockwell did not cease to exist on that fateful day last month. "George Lincoln Rockwell: Temporal Political Leader" has simply assumed his new role as "George Lincoln Rockwell: Eternal Martyr." Through his heroic death, Commander Rockwell now takes his place beside our immortal Fuehrer as the greatest of National Socialist martyrs. And just as he gave us needed guidance when he stood in our midst, so his living memory now provides us with an undying, all-powerful inspiration to fight the great battle which must be fought, and to do the mighty work which must be done.

Martyrdom can never kill an idea or destroy a movement. Martyrdom is, in fact, essential for the victory of every earth-shaking, revolutionary idea. It is a confirmation of the seriousness of our purpose. It represents the culminating act of hate and hostility by our enemies, and is the highest tribute that can be paid to our dedication and commitment to the National Socialist Idea. Adolf Hitler teaches us:

"On principle the movement must so educate its members that they do not view the struggle as something idly cooked up, but as something they themselves experience. Therefore, they must not fear the hostility of their enemies, but must feel that it is the presupposition for their own right to exist. They must not shun the hatred of the enemies of our nationality and our philosophy and its manifestations; they must long for them."

(Mein Kampf, Vol. I, Chap. XII, Sec. 13)

The Fuehrer has also explained why the decadent, materialistic order under which we live will never be able, despite all attempts at persecution and suppression, to stop our National Socialist march to victory:

"The application of force alone, without the impetus of a basic spiritual idea as a starting point, can never lead to the destruction of an idea and its dissemination, except in the form of a complete extermination of even the very last exponent of the idea and the destruction of the last tradition. . . . Every persecution which occurs without a spiritual basis seems morally unjustified and whips up precisely the more valuable parts of a people in protest, which results in an adoption of the spiritual content of the unjustly persecuted movement. In many this occurs simply through a feeling of opposition against the attempt to bludgeon down an idea by brute force. As a result, the number of inward supporters grows in proportion as the persecution increases."

(Mein Kampf, Vol. I, Chap. V)

The classic confirmation of this truth lies in the success which Christianity has enjoyed over all persecutions, especially those directed against the early church. Had it not been watered by the blood of saints and martyrs, it would never have grown into the powerful force it has become. It is similar in the case of all important religious and ideological movements.

Nietzsche once declared: "The more determinant a being is for the future, the greater are its sufferings." Commander Rockwell himself wrote in This Time the World on page 306: "One does not win a whole new world with ordinary sorrows and agonies, but only after enduring and surmounting the utmost tragedies and Olympian agonies." The Commander, like the Fuehrer before him, gave his very life as a blood testimony to this fact.

Thus we see that martyrdom--far from stopping our movement--holds out the great promise of victory. But, at the same time, it imposes the highest moral obligation. The death of a man like Commander Rockwell--the death of every last National Socialist martyr--is an admonishment for us to do our duty, to redouble our efforts, and to be willing to make any sacrifice necessary for the achievement of that victory.

Party Leadership

The responsibilities of Party leadership following the assassination of Commander Rockwell have been assumed by Matt Koehl, the Party's senior officer who has served as National Secretary. The new National Leader also assumes command of the Stormtroops.

The Party succession was carried out according to the organizational chain-of-command which Commander Rockwell had established, and was subsequently reaffirmed by personal expressions of loyalty and support by all officers of the Party throughout the country.

White Power

At the time of the assassination, Commander Rockwell had just finished writing a new book, White Power, and was editing the final chapters. This book--which analyzes the entire racial crisis and points the way to White revolution and White Power--was originally scheduled for release 1 September. Because of the tragic events, release has been postponed one month. (See Activity of the Month for further details.)

WHITE POWER Newspaper

WHITE POWER, the newspaper of White revolution, was launched 20 August under the personal aegis of Commander Rockwell. Thousands of copies have already been sold and distributed in America's major cities. A special task force from National Headquarters, including Lt Frank Drager, GL Spencer Redfield and PT Michael Steward, helped to organize distribution teams in Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, Lansing, Grand Rapids and Chicago, where opposition to Black terror is growing. Special distributions have also been made in Milwaukee, scene of recent racial disorders, under the supervision of Capt Chris Vidnjevich of the Chicago Headquarters. In Washington, D.C., several Party members set something of a record by selling $7 worth of newspapers outside a theater featuring "Triumph of the Will," the NS motion picture classic.

WHITE POWER Newspaper will be sent free to all members of the Party, the ST and the NSYM. For all others the rate is $2 for 12 issues. Bulk copies may be obtained at 10 for $1 from:
ANP-Dallas--Box 22071--Dallas, Texas 75222.

URGENTLY NEEDED: Writers If the Party is to continue its publications with any kind of regularity, it is absolutely necessary that we enlist the services of several competent National Socialist writers. Anyone interested in a part- or full-time position working on Party publications should call or write directly to National Headquarters in Arlington. For those calling, the telephone number is: (703) 534-3476.

ST Promotions

Lt Michael H. Brown, who formerly headed the Party unit in the San Francisco-Oakland area, was promoted to the rank of First Lieutenant in the Stormtroops on 12 August. Lt Brown is currently assisting Capt Forbes in Los Angeles, where he is also laying the groundwork for a dynamic NS Motorcycle Corps.

GL Donald A. Parsons was recently promoted to Warrant Officer in the ST. WO Parsons has been assigned to Barracks security at National Headquarters, and is also in charge of Headquarters mailings and shipments.

ST Commission

A/Lt Frank A. Drager, Jr. was commissioned a Lieutenant in the ST on 10 September. Lt Drager has also been named General Organizer for the Party and Stormtroops.

Party Promotion

George T. Parker was promoted to the post of General Correspondent 10 September. He had previously worked as Assistant Correspondent for the National Headquarters Staff under the National Secretary.

New ST Application Fee & Dues Rate

Effective 1 September 1967 the ST application fee is $2. The monthly dues rate for regular ST personnel is $1, to be remitted to the local ST command. ST members who are also Party members will continue to remit their $2.50 monthly dues to National Headquarters separately.

LPPW Course Discontinued

The Legal, Psychological and Political Warfare Course, which Commander Rockwell had completed through Lesson No. 8, has been discontinued. Members who have paid for additional lessons will receive proper credit against their dues.

We shortly hope to announce a reissuance of these eight important lessons as an abbreviated course for National Socialist training.

ANTI-NEGRO DOG FOR SALE: The Party is offering to a Member or Supporter who can guarantee him a good home the Commander's faithful watchdog, a pro-Aryan male animal of Alaskan Malamute-German Shepherd strain. He can serve as a good defense against Negro assailants and intruders. The Party will consider the best offer. Call or write National Headquarters in Arlington.

Reds Planning Disorder

On 21 October the Reds are seeking to mobilize a half million Black terrorists, White race-traitors, assorted creeps and the usual New York Jew Communist functionaries for the purpose of bringing disorder, chaos and anarchy to the streets of the nation's capital. The Party and the ST are laying tentative plans for a counter-rally and demonstration. Members and supporters, particularly those on the Eastern Seaboard, are advised to stand by for further developments.

College Directories Needed

Members and supporters living in a community where there is a college or university are urged to procure a copy of the current college directory for this Headquarters. These directories can usually be purchased at a bookstore on or near campus.

NSYM Fall Membership Drive

With the resumption of school, NSYM members are urged to step up their recruiting activities among classmates this fall. Every Member should try to recruit at least one other Member during the next three months. Those who succeed in recruiting three or more members will be considered for promotion to the rank of Unit Leader.

Activity of the Month

This month every Member is asked to take part in a campaign to promote Commander Rockwell's book, White Power. Carefully pick out local bookstores and libraries, starting with the larger ones. Then systematically approach each of them several times, by phone and in person, with requests for the book. Try to get others to ask the same stores and libraries for White Power. Where there are several members in a locality, it is recommended that they pool their efforts and make a concerted project out of this activity. Four to ten (4-10) requests for a given title within the period of a week or two can give the impression of a sizable public demand for it.

If, after a few requests, a dealer expresses interest in White Power, but doesn't know where to get copies, simply refer him to: Ragnarok Press--Box 22071--Dallas, Texas 75222. All others should order their Second Edition copies, hardcover, from ANP-Dallas at $5.95 each.

The Job Ahead of Us

In the aftermath of the assassination there have inevitably been many questions concerning the future course of the movement. I shall here outline briefly the direction that American National Socialism must take during the immediate months ahead, if it is to develop into a viable force in American politics.

Before elaborating on this matter, however, I shall first mention briefly certain Jewish prognostications regarding the Party's future. Once more the Chosen Ones are busy consigning us to oblivion, and are again writing our obituary. This time they contend that we will disappear in one of two ways: (1) We will, in desperation, embark on a course of action so rash and illegal that we will all be locked up and put out of commission under heavy sentences; or (2) we will--lacking Commander Rockwell's strong personality as a unifying factor--begin fighting among ourselves and split up into several ineffective, little factions.

Actually, there is a distinct danger in both of these directions, which I have recognized from the very beginning. The Jews would love to see us take one of these paths. But we are not going to accommodate the Jews or go according to their script. The course of action I am setting forth is designed, among other things, to steer the movement clear of these pitfalls.

The Jews will, of course, tighten up their control over the news media more than ever. In the weeks immediately preceding the assassination, a press blackout had already gone into effect which excluded national coverage of all news of major Party activity. We must now brace ourselves for the most complete "silent treatment" we have ever seen, bearing in mind that this is just one more testament to the potential threat we pose to the Jewish system. Despite its disadvantages, however, this same curtain of silence will permit us to carry out significant portions of our immediate plans undisturbed.

I would like to comment on the irony of the fact that so much of what Commander Rockwell started during his lifetime is just now beginning to show signs of success. In recent weeks the Party has experienced unprecedented growth, as has the NSYM. Inquiries have doubled, applications for membership have risen sharply, requests for membership reinstatement have jumped, and general grass-roots support has expanded noticeably. The Party is now confronted by tremendous opportunities. At the same time, however, it is faced with enormous problems, involving principally a lack of qualified staff personnel, as well as a lack of money.

I realize that there is a certain risk in discussing these matters here, inasmuch as any leak would "tip our hand" to the enemy. However, I believe you need to know the Party's basic course of action, if you are to give it your full support and cooperation. This consideration far outweighs any temporary advantage an enemy may get from a tip-off.

There must now be a general consolidation of the Party's energies and resources. We cannot afford to be overextended on dozens of little "pop-gun" projects and marginal operations. Before his death, Commander Rockwell had outlined a number of organizational plans as part of a new phase of the National Socialist struggle. He was especially anxious to put the Party on a sound, professional footing, so that it could effectively meet the challenges of the decisive years ahead. It is now our job to build that efficient, disciplined, professional Party apparatus which will enable us to seriously exploit those future political opportunities.

Our number one task is to build up and strengthen the National Headquarters at all costs. That job must take priority over every other consideration; all other tasks must be regarded as subordinate to this. A vitally functioning National Headquarters is absolutely essential to our entire operation, just as its loss would prove fatal to the movement.

Our major problem is this: We need volunteers! We need volunteers as never before in every phase of our central operations. With the increasingly heavy demands placed on National Headquarters in recent weeks, involving added responsibilities and duties for everyone, our Staff is seriously undermanned. We are in critical need of competent, conscientious help in all areas, particularly in writing, editing and printing. Unless such help is forthcoming, it will be necessary to drastically curtail some of our operations and activities.

We trust that such measures will not be necessary, and that there will be enough individuals concerned with the success of this movement to volunteer their services. For some this will mean a big decision and considerable sacrifice. But when we consider that the Party has suffered its greatest loss, and realize once again what is at stake on this planet, it forces us to recognize that we all share a holy obligation to make even greater sacrifices for our great Cause.

Even those who are unable to participate full-time in Party work are encouraged to move to the Greater Washington-Northern Virginia area, to reinforce the National Headquarters and help to build a strong base of National Socialism. There are any number of tasks and activities that such persons can participate in on a part-time basis.

In the immediate months ahead, the Party will, if necessary, have to forego a certain amount of public activity, so that it can concentrate its energies on building up an organization which is truly combat-ready in the inevitable battles of coming years. If we are going to meet the decisive test of our age, we are first going to have to devote some time toward careful organizational preparation and "homework." All street activity at this time will become the primary responsibility of the Stormtroops, and the development of the ST will proceed accordingly.

I realize again that this poses a risk, inasmuch as there will undoubtedly be attempts by provocateurs to disrupt the work of the movement by spreading vicious rumors and lies here, misconstruing our purpose and motives, trying to set comrade against comrade, and preying on every tendency toward political adventurism and thrill-seeking which is allowed to replace a genuine sense of National Socialist idealism. But these efforts will be in vain if every National Socialist recognizes them for what they are, and is on guard against all attempts to cause dissension and disunity and to create cleavage and "class war" within our ranks.

Coupled with our organizational development, steps will be taken toward an expanded ideological development of the movement, with a view toward bringing to each Member and Supporter a fuller understanding of the great world view we hold and are fighting for. In order to properly do our job as National Socialists, we must possess a clear knowledge of the ideological and moral soundness of our doctrine. This knowledge, in turn, must lead us to an instinctive recognition of the necessity of a mighty struggle for the establishment of a revolutionary New Order on this earth. Once this feeling, this attitude, this faith grips the movement, casting its unifying bond around every last National Socialist comrade, our movement will become invincible, and nothing will stand in our way.

Matt Koehl,
National Leader

Heil Hitler!
