No. 44

"This self-sacrificing will to give one's personal labor and if necessary one's own life for others is most strongly developed in the Aryan. The Aryan is not greatest in his mental qualities as such, but in the extent of his willingness to put all his abilities in the service of the community. In him the instinct of self-preservation has reached the noblest form, since he willingly subordinates his own ego to the life of the community and, if the hour demands, even sacrifices it."

Party Officers Visit Midwest

National Leader Matt Koehl and Party Executive Officer Robert Lloyd visited NSWPP groups in several large Midwestern cities during early June. At meetings in Akron, Ohio; Detroit, Michigan; Chicago, Illinois; and Racine, Wisconsin, NL Koehl and EO Lloyd outlined the objectives of the Party at this time and how these objectives would be accomplished.

Mr. Koehl traced the growth of the Party from its founding by Commander Rockwell to the time of the Commander's death in 1967 when it had become an internationally known organization, to the present as it begins forming the groundwork for a White man's mass movement. He explained that only by breaking our struggle up into steps, or phases, and putting the Party's entire strength behind the accomplishment of each ordered step could the Party make the enormous transition from an idea in the mind of Commander Rockwell to the position of national leadership which the Party will one day assume.

The first major step in the development of the Party (Phase One) was that of becoming known to the public. When starting the Party in 1959, without money or people to back him up, Commander Rockwell knew that his only hope for attracting others who understood the extreme measures necessary to insure our racial survival was to have his name and the name of his new Party before the public. To accomplish this, he was forced to adopt dramatic tactics and stunts to get publicity. In making the existence of the Party known to the general public, "all publicity was good publicity." Publicity, however, was not easy to come by and was often the result of riots, beatings and jailings.

Having established the name of the Party as a household word, the next step in the development of the Movement was to build a solid organization out of the racial idealists who had been attracted to the Party in spite of the lies and smears promoted by the press during Phase One. This step of building a solid foundation for future mass growth was the second phase of Party development and was officially opened by Commander Rockwell in January of 1967 with the changing of the name of the organization from American Nazi Party to National Socialist White People's Party. At the time of his assassination in 1967, Commander Rockwell was actively pursuing Phase Two of the Party's development.

Mr. Koehl also pointed out that each Phase of the Party's growth must be broken down into a series of priorities. The first priority of the Party following the Commander's assassination was the purchase of a suitable Party headquarters in Arlington. By mustering all Party resources behind this one project, it was accomplished. The Party now owns a better headquarters than Commander Rockwell would have ever believed possible at this time. The next priority of Phase Two is the regular publication of the Party newspaper White Power. This, like the acquisition of the Party's headquarters will be accomplished by the concentration of major resources and talents on this one project.

The National Leader observed that three categories of people join the National Socialist Movement: the spies, agents and provocateurs who join to create dissention; the "lukewarms," people who are in general agreement with National Socialism, but not strongly enough to really do anything in the way of positive action; and the true racial idealists, those who fervently hold the beliefs of Adolf Hitler. National Socialists must always be vigilant for anyone from the first group trying to slip into the Party. We must be conscious of the fact that traitors will constantly be trying to hurt the Movement from within. Persons belonging to the "lukewarm" group offer very little to the Party at this crucial building stage. All too often, half-hearted hangers-on do the least for the Party, yet feel called upon to offer a plethora of criticisms and suggestions to those diligently working for the Cause. Frequently, "lukewarms" unintentionally cause as much dissention in the Party as outright traitors. He pointed out that people in the second category will be valuable to the Party in the mass phase since they will at least vote for National Socialists running in elections, but at this embryonic stage, they are not worth the effort to cultivate. The third group, the National Socialist activists are the bedrock of the Movement. Mr. Koehl pointed to this group, the fanatically dedicated idealists, as the ones which Party propaganda is directed at attracting and developing during Phase Two.

Robert Lloyd, Executive Officer of the NSWPP, spoke on the need for activism for all National Socialists. Since the press has kept a tighter-than-ever cap on all news about Party activities, it is now up to us to develop lines of communication to the public. Our main effort at this time is the use of the written word to recruit other National Socialist revolutionaries to our ranks for Phase Two development.

Mr. Lloyd pointed out that the NSWPP is a revolutionary action organization, as opposed to publishing societies, paramilitary and semi-religious groups, with which the Party is sometimes mistakenly equated. Because of the enormous task before us, each National Socialist must make a personal commitment to activism; it is the responsibility of each of us to fulfill his role, be it great or humble, in our struggle. He emphasized the fact that every National Socialist, no matter what his age, profession or personal circumstances, can do something valuable for the Cause, even if it is nothing more than conscientiously passing out ten leaflets each day.

He likened the Party to a man who, alone, must overturn a gigantic stone. The only way he can move this heavy object is by employing levers to make maximum use of his own strength. The Party's task is to overturn the Jewish Power Structure and replace it with a new Aryan order. Only by the use of our revolutionary activism, our levers, can we overturn the entrenched Jewish power.

He ended by outlining a number of activities in which groups and individuals in other parts of the country can participate. These included the installation of the White Power Message in large metropolitan areas.

He also described the events in Washington, D.C., which have led to the closing of a theater which showed the Hollywood race-mixing film, "Slaves." "There is a very potent anti-race-mixing stench available, for those who would use it for completely legal purposes."

Los Angeles White Power Message Returns

Following a stiff fight with the California Utilities Commission, the Los Angeles White Power Message is back in operation. Service was suspended in March following an order to the telephone Company by the State Attorney General. But, as we predicted, this was only a temporary set-back for the Party. The Los Angeles service, with two lines in operation, is again spreading messages to Californians. This permits them to render a maximum of 10,000 messages each week to the Los Angeles area. The new number for the Los Angeles White Power Message is (213) 579-2370.

We are most grateful to the West Coast National Socialists who contributed funds for the legal battle which made the reinstatement of the Los Angeles White Power Message possible.

New NSLF Publication

Enclosed is a sample of The Liberator, publication of the National Socialist Liberation Front.

This first issue was prepared in time for distribution prior to closing of the school year. The next issue will appear at the opening of the fall semester.

The Liberator is sent free to members of the National Socialist Liberation Front. NSLF dues are $5 per year. If you are a student, or interested in working with students in your locality, you are eligible to join. Write for an application.

The Liberator sells in bulk quantities for $5 per 100. Plan to buy a large bundle for distribution at colleges in your area when the fall semester opens.

Assassin Makes Strange Bedfellows

Those who knew Commander Rockwell's assassin were aware that he changed his name from Patsalos to Patler after he left New York. Since his release on bond, it has been established that Patler is cavorting around with the lowest type of Party enemies including New York hippies. We also learned that he had gone back to using his Greek name, "Patsalos."

This was confirmed by the February, 1969, issue of The Realist, a magazine edited by the New York Yippie Paul Krassner. As a cursory glance through its pages will reveal, The Realist is a Marxist, pornographic and thoroughly Jewish rag, published by the lowest scum of the new left. A portion of the February Realist's third page is printed below. Recognize the signature on the cartoon?

DC Theater Takes Big Loss

A Washington, D.C., theater which showed the Hollywood race-mixing spectacular "Slaves" in spite of the repeated stink bombings during the opening week, suffered an as yet undetermined loss of box office receipts from further closings. In spite of these tremendous losses to theaters showing race-mixing movies, comparatively little news of it has slipped into the press. A number of small articles like the one below have been printed after the attacks.

Nazi Literature Found in Theatre

American Nazi Party literature was found next to several simmering stink bombs in the rear of the Warner Theater, 13th and E Streets nw., last night during a showing of the film "Slaves."

The incident was the latest stink bombing of the Warner during the showing of "Slaves." The film includes depictions of the mistreatment of black slaves in America and some interracial love scenes.

Police said last night they were seeking two young men who, witnesses said, left the theater as the smell at the stink bombs was detected.

A member of the National Socialist White Peoples Party (formerly the American Nazi Party) was arrested in connection with an earlier stink bombing.

Pursuant to demands by theater owners for some action by D.C. authorities to ease the box office losses, charges of disorderly conduct were brought against Party Member Michael J. Gauss. Gauss was arrested at the time of the sixth stink bombing of the Warner Theater and charged with burglary. The charge was dropped, however, when the judge at his pre-trial hearing warned that a conviction on a burglary charge would be impossible. So later that week, disorderly conduct charges were brought against Mr. Gauss and he was jailed. Mr. Gauss is now out on bond awaiting trial on these charges, which he's confident of beating.
