"The lack of a great, creative, renewing idea means at all times a limitation of fighting force. Firm belief in the right to apply even the most brutal weapons is always bound up with the existence of a fanatical faith in the necessity of the victory of a revolutionary new order on this earth.

MEIN KAMPF, Vol. Two. Chap. IX

A New Year's Message

The National Socialist Movement is entering a new year and a new decade confronted by enormous opportunities. The racial polarization which we foresaw in the early '60s has taken place. The basic indecisiveness and paralysis of liberal-democratic government, of which we have always been aware, is now clearly evident. The growing crisis of a speculative, stock-market economy which we long ago predicted, is now manifesting itself.

We National Socialists are now entering a very important period in the development of our Movement. The great issues are becoming more sharply defined. A revolutionary ferment is beginning to rise among the broad White masses. The position of the liberals, conservatives and other moderates is slowly becoming weaker. A political vacuum is forming. The National Socialist Movement must now ready itself to provide revolutionary leadership and direction for our people in the emerging conflict.

We are now entering a decade of supreme challenge, a decade of critical struggle against the unholy forces of economic-materialism, decadence and racial suicide—a decade which can become one of historic triumph for Aryan man.

I accordingly call upon all National Socialists to help meet this challenge by joining together in a powerful display of solidarity, increased activism and rededication to the immortal teachings of Adolf Hitler.

Just as we have been able in the past to overcome every adversity and forge on to new strength through the unfailing sacrifice and dedication of our members and supporters, so I am confident that in this same spirit and with the blessing of the Almighty our efforts during this new decade will be crowned with success.

Hess Christmas Vigil Draws Strong Public Interest—Ignored by Press

Commander Koehl opens vigil demanding freedom for Hess outside White House. National Socialists stood in protest of his imprisonment around the clock for three days before Christmas passing out literature and explaining to White House visitors the truth about Hess and the Nuremberg kangaroo court which sentenced him.

On December 22, 23 and 24 the NSWPP sponsored an around-the-clock vigil in front of the White House demanding the release of Rudolf Hess. During the 72-hour demonstration, National Socialists stood with a huge sign bearing a picture of Hess with the wording FREEDOM FOR RUDOLF HESS — PRISONER OF PEACE. Passers-by were given literature explaining the facts of Hess' imprisonment—facts which are unavailable to them in the Jewish-democratic press.

In spite of the biting cold, the vigil was passed by a surprisingly large number of people. The national Christmas tree (displayed at the White House) drew significant crowds which passed the site of the demonstration. The local and national press managed to blanket out all news of the vigil, although Hess was in the news around that time because of his transfer from Spandau Prison to a hospital and the brief visit he was finally permitted with his wife and son. The press was undoubtedly caught "looking the other way" by many people who passed the vigil and expected to see a write-up on it in the Washington papers.

In many cities across the country National Socialists made a special effort to call public attention to the injustice of Hess' imprisonment through literature distributions. In some localities, petitions were used to interest people in helping the Hess cause.

Special Reports on High School Activities

National Socialists who are high school students or who've been working closely with high school students are asked to prepare a special report on the activities, and propaganda which have been successful in their organizing among students. A detailed, chronological account of your activities since the opening of the school year should be sent in within three weeks for a study which is being made on the NS potential in the high schools. This study will be used in formulating plans and techniques for spring campaigns in high schools around the country.

Please keep reports accurate, giving a true estimate of NS strength and potential in your school. Send it to Party Headquarters without delay.
