OFFICIAL INTERNAL ORGAN OF THE National Socialist White Peoples Party AND THE National Socialist Youth Movement

Number 282

January 1982 YL-93

"All life is bound up in three theses: Struggle is the father of all things, virtue lies in blood, leadership is primary and decisive."

---Adolf Hitler (1928)

IRS Threatens to Padlock National Headquarters March 9

As this NS BULLETIN goes to press, the Movement is still engaged in a fierce financial struggle with the federal government.

The Internal Revenue Service has given the Party until 8 March 1982 to pay in full the amount it claims the Movement owes in "back taxes." If these taxes aren't paid by that date, the IRS has notified the Party that it will seize the national headquarters building in Arlington in lieu of the unpaid monies the very next day.

Whether by coincidence or design, the day the government has targeted for padlocking our offices is the 23rd anniversary of the founding of the Party.

One bit of bright news in this otherwise dark outlook is that the IRS has accepted "on a tentative basis" the amended tax return which the Party filed in December. The original IRS bill demanded nearly $40,000 from the Movement. Our amended return--which the IRS at first refused to even consider--showed that we couldn't possibly owe more than $22,000 ($17,000 in taxes plus $5,000 in fines, interest and late fees). The IRS has now agreed to consider this amended figure--but only after it tacked on additional penalties, pushing it to over $26,000!

(All comrades should remember that the Movement is also disputing this amended figure, which is being levied primarily against money the Party received in dues and contributions. Under federal law, political organizations are not required to pay taxes on such income.)

In threatening to seize the national headquarters building, the IRS did an about-face on the method it had previously indicated would be used to collect these "taxes" from the Party. In December the Movement was told that the actual seizure of property or assets was unlikely. Rather, the IRS said, the Movement would be allowed to pay off whatever monies it owed in monthly installments in the range of $1,000.

Although the Party has successfully raised thousands and thousands of dollars by way of the Survival Appeal (see following story), it is improbable that these donations will come anywhere near the sum which the IRS is demanding. In order to raise the full amount necessary to prevent seizure of the Arlington headquarters, Commander Koehl is attempting to come up with the needed monies in another manner, which will be explained in detail elsewhere and at another time.

Comrades who are worried that the seizure of 2507 North Franklin Road by the government would mean the end of the Party should remember that our Movement has survived the deaths of Adolf Hitler and Lincoln Rockwell; that the IRS seized the Party headquarters on North Randolph Street in 1965; that there are thousands of Party members, supporters and sympathizers who desire to see the Movement continue; and that, above all, Commander Koehl is determined to see the struggle continue at all costs.

Survival Appeal Raising Record Amount

Hundreds of Party members, supporters and sympathizers responded to the Commander's emergency appeal for funds in December. In the space of approximately three weeks, over $12,200 was raised by the campaign. Coupled with donations sent in earlier by several comrades, the total as of 31 December was $13,041.57. That sum is nearly twice the total raised by the 1981 Spring Appeal to "Help the Party Enter the Computer Age," which ran for almost three and a half months!

As this NS BULLETIN is being prepared in January, contributions to the appeal are continuing to roll in. All indications are that this will prove to be one of the most successful fund-raising drives in Party history.

Although it is unlikely that we will be able to raise anywhere near the total amount demanded by the IRS by way of the appeal, the sacrificial generosity on the part of those comrades who gave to the campaign has put the Party in a position where it has a fighting chance to keep its national headquarters building. All comrades should also bear in mind that although the IRS demands are the largest and most serious financial threat facing the Movement, the IRS is not the only bill collector knocking on our door. The response to the Survival Appeal has helped the Party to remain financially stable on all fronts. For example, it has enabled us to print and mail two issues of WHITE POWER within a five-week period.

The total amount raised by the Survival Appeal will appear in the next issue of the NS BULLETIN.

A Note from the NSYM National Secretary

NSYM National Secretary Peter Kratzel reminds all full and probationary NSYM members that their 1982 annual dues of $5.00 are now due.

Notes from NS Publications

1. WHITE POWER 101 is now in the mail to all Party members and supporters, and any comrade who hasn't received his or her copy yet should expect it within the next week or so. This issue features articles on the declining White birthrate in the U.S., on the ancient Spartans and on the race-treason of Richard Nixon. Also included is information on the Movement's current battle with the IRS.

Bulk quantities are available at the following prices:

- 10 copies — $6
- 100 copies — $40
- 500 copies — $100
- 1,000 copies — $130

Purchaser pays postage on quantities of 500 and above. Local units are eligible for standard 25 percent discount.

2. All comrades are reminded that back issues of WHITE POWER are available at super-low prices:

- 100 copies — $10
- 1,000 copies — $50

Purchaser pays postage. Specify issue(s) desired. (Numbers 96, 97, 99 and 100 currently available.) Local unit discount not applicable at these prices.

3. The new leaflet "Three Jewish Contributions to Western Civilization," which was enclosed with the last issue of the NS BULLETIN, is now available from NS Publications in Cicero. Price: 100 copies for $2.00, plus postage and handling.

4. NS Publications customers are reminded of the following ordering instructions:

- All orders for Party periodicals should be sent to Arlington;
- All orders for books, propaganda materials, etc., should be sent to Cicero;
- Minimum NS Publications order is $5.00;
- Always add 10 percent for postage and handling on all domestic orders;
- Always add 25 percent for postage and handling on all foreign orders;
- Illinois residents ordering from Cicero should add six percent state sales tax.

ACTIVITIES IN BRIEF

• National Socialists throughout the world celebrated the ancient Aryan holiday of Yule in the second half of December. In Arlington, the celebration was held in conjunction with National Headquarters' annual "Freedom for Rudolf Hess" vigil, which, as in previous years, took place across the street from the White House. Party Yule festivals were also held by comrades in Cleveland, Michigan and the Northern New Jersey-New York City area. The National Socialist Federation of Ireland held a similar Yuletide gathering in Dublin on 20 December.

• National Organizer Martin Kerr was interviewed over WTWN-Radio (Grand Rapids, Mich.) on 21 December. Comrade Kerr was given ample time to explain the Party's 12-point program in great detail. Following this he answered questions phoned in by the listening audience. The entire program lasted 90 minutes, and Comrade Kerr reports that it was one of the most successful media broadcasts that he has done in his 15 years as a National Socialist activist.

• The Cleveland Unit held a series of actions protesting the motion picture Reds in December. This Hollywood film glorifies the Jewish-Bolshevik revolution which took place in Russia in 1917. Cleveland National Socialists, joined by other anti-communists, demonstrated in front of theaters where the movie was playing on four occasions during the month. Special leaflets denouncing this pro-communist film were distributed to those entering the theater. The demonstrations received good coverage on two Cleveland television stations.

• Cleveland Unit Organizer and longtime Party activist Jimmy Clendennen received a highly-censored copy of the file the FBI keeps on him in December. Under the much-publicized Freedom of Information and Privacy Acts, all government agencies are required to disclose what information they have in their files on someone, if that individual requests it. The agencies are allowed to withhold information only if it would reveal the identity of government informers (spies) or if it would jeopardize "national security." Nearly every page of Comrade Clendennen's file was censored to some degree, and 156 pages were withheld in their entirety.

• A letter-to-the-editor from Indianapolis Unit Organizer Clayton Roots was printed in the Greenfield, Ind., Daily Reporter on 17 December. Comrade Roots' blasted the Moral Majority for its pro-Israel, anti-Aryan beliefs, and publicized Commander Koehl's challenge to M&M head Jerry Falwell to debate him on the topic of U.S. aid to the Jewish state.

• Local Units routinely conduct organized distributions of Party literature. However, many comrades who are unable to take part in unit activities for whatever reason conduct distributions by themselves or with friends. Special credit for showing such initiative this month should be given to the following comrades: W.C., of Woodstock Valley, Conn.; D.H., of Pleasantville, N.Y.; J.H., of Wichita, Kan.; D.P., of Poughkeepsie, N.Y.; and J.T., of Berwyn Ill.

TWO-YEAR PLAN NOTES

BUILDING THE VANGUARD

by Colin Jordan

This final installment of the Two-Year Plan notes is excerpted from an article of the same name which appeared in the November, 1981, issue of Gothic Ripples, a National Socialist newsletter of high quality published by the British NS leader and theoretician Colin Jordan.

Although some of the readers of the NS BULLETIN may find Comrade Jordan's writing style and vocabulary more complex than what they are used to, we feel that what he has to say is of such importance that the extra effort involved in reading this piece is well worthwhile.

Comrades interested in subscribing to Gothic Ripples should write to: Colin Jordan, Thorgarth, Greenhow Hill, Harrogate, N. Yorkshire, HG3 5JQ, ENGLAND.

[T]he first requirement of the true elitist is the will power to turn his back on the tempting but futile distractions of ordinary politics, and the second is to purge his mind of all attachment to the existing state and System and society, abstracting himself to the utmost from the grip of this alien world so as to be total rebellion against its decadence, becoming a fragment of the future. The latter demands devotion to an advanced degree of self-education in at least all the basic knowledge of a mentally equipped elitist, including an insight into the historical context of our struggle; an appreciation of all the major facets of the correlated and universally prevalent degeneration (the cultural and social and biological and spiritual no less than the more plainly political), necessary for that wholeness of view essential for the fullness of combat of the complete belligerent; and an adequate general knowledge of relevant law, police procedure, methods of hostile infiltration and provocation and corruption and intimidation, and security precautions against this. After—and only after—this comes that specialization in any of the great variety of skills legitimately useful to the elitist in building the elite now, or acting now against the System to hasten its breakdown, or preparing for action in that eventual situation. In all of this not only has the elitist the task of training to become as far as possible a self-contained unit of the revolution, but, as one becomes joined to others in a gradually evolving corporate structure, that structure has to become more and more the framework of the state of the future, developing in advance within the declining body politic of the present. Here we are essentially concerned with the study and application of positive arts and sciences, not the desultory dabbings of dilettantes, and this involves work galore for those concerned.

Training thus professionally for the struggle, the political soldier of the vanguard needs to articulate a credo whereby each day becomes dedicated to life on a higher plane. In this, struggle is to be accepted as the assertion of self in the purpose of life; loyalty and courage and strength in struggle as the supreme virtues; the folk—the community of the race—as greater than self, and the highest end; good an evil as precisely what benefits or harms the folk, and nothing else; and race and our beliefs in support of our Race, seen in its entirety, as transcending the geography of countries and the structures of states, there lying our highest allegiance and with, in consequence, every fighter for our Race and our beliefs anywhere in the world being our comrade.

In the beginning you may be alone in all this, an isolated revolutionary agent in enemy-occupied territory. If so, understand at once that this is no cause for lament and despondency, and no excuse for inhibition and inaction, but the very test of initiation as to your suitability because the true elitist is precisely the one capable of operating on his own, if needs be, not the dependent weakling who needs some pre-existing organization to take him by the hand and arrange things for him. Thus the initial isolation of a person of a couple or so persons is highly salutary, and those who because of this lapse back into the life of the ordinary political herd are exactly those who are incapable and unsuitable for the exacting role of the elite.

Therefore cast out any feeling of helplessness by uncovering the power which lies within you, the power to make yourself a most effective weapon! Be confident in the superiority of quality against quantity, whereby the trained and experienced elitist can have an effect far beyond that of a legion of the little people on which conventional politics rely! Be assured that numbers are more than anything else an illusion, whenever regardless of quality, being weakness masquerading as strength! Realize that the greatest force in the world is the power of the will residing in the excellence of the few! Believe this: A tiny minority which is good enough—dedicated enough, knowledgeable enough, trained enough, organized enough—can move mountains, and can topple the vulnerable edifice of the complicated modern state!

But of course, having said that, it has also to be stressed that we need as many as there are of the right people, and so the task of each and every elitist, along with self-development, is to contact and recruit and coordinate our kind. This is essentially a matter of the most careful personal approach, only seeking out those who have already proven themselves suitable, recruiting by invitation, and never in the indiscriminate manner of mass organizations advertising or canvassing at large. Thus never seek to bring in someone who is truly a stranger, recommending himself only by his claims of inclination. It is here, paradoxically, that existing organizations will be useful to us by bringing people together and exhibiting their worth so that we can conveniently watch and select. In doing so, however, constant vigilance is necessary to avoid for the sake of this access to recruits becoming involved in conventional activities at the cost of our proper pursuits.

In recruitment and operation there can be no place for illogical and wasteful divisions detrimental to an endeavor seeking to draw massive additional strength from that intensity of unity which results from a profound harmony of minds. Just as there is no place for the barriers of nationality, so too there is no room for any exclusion or relegation of women as inferior, this contrary to a recognition of the equal, joint and complementary worth of both sexes, despite some differing capabilities. Similarly, there is no room for friction between the generations when you are best to be judged as how old you are as you are young in heart, and as young as you are useful; and no place for class cleavage where the only demarcation which really matters is between us and the rest.

In organization it is imperative to proceed on the basis of small local cells of six or so, this dispersal offering the highest prospect of security, while providing a suitable size of operational unit; and with the maximum autonomy consistent with unified purpose and concerted action.

A New Year's Message from the Commander

As we enter a new year, we find our Movement in a state of emergency and crisis. The whole future of our Cause hangs in the balance.

We are confronted with enormous difficulties, staggering difficulties—incredible difficulties—which sometimes seem about to overwhelm us and crush the life out of the Movement. Often our task seems all but impossible and hopeless.

And yet we are keenly aware of all that is at stake, and that we are fighting and struggling for the only kind of world that is worthwhile. Even now we can dimly see those future generations of our Race looking anxiously back at us, along with those stern, proud generations from out of the past. And we know that we can do no other than that which duty and our conscience demands.

We are in a crisis situation, a time when even the smallest extra effort can make a tremendous difference. What we now do or don't do will decide whether the lives and blood sacrifice of hundreds of thousands and millions of the finest racial comrades and National Socialists had meaning—or whether it was all in vain. It is we today—now—who hold the fateful answer.

Ultimately, only Fate can decide the issue of victory or defeat. We, however, are responsible for the Honor with which we acquit ourselves. Whether we heed or shirk the call of conscience—that is something we alone can decide. For true National Socialists there can be but one course.

During the past two years we have made enormous strides in the inner development of our Movement, in raising the consciousness of our comrades to a new appreciation of the significance of our mission. Much remains to be done in a continuation of this development, as well as in now bringing our revolutionary Idea to an increasing number of racial idealists within the Aryan community.

In the months ahead, our Movement will be undertaking some far-reaching changes in its organizational structure. These changes are dictated not merely by the circumstances affecting our immediate survival, but more importantly by considerations governing our future success. The essential, overriding consideration in all this, however, is that the mission of the Movement established by Adolf Hitler persist and continue in a viable form during this most difficult period of its development.

Above all, it is essential that we adhere ever more strongly to the moral and spiritual integrity of our sacred Cause and to those great principles which form its cornerstones, and that we firmly reject all tendencies towards equivocation and cheap expediency. For long after all attempts at compromise have failed and been forgotten, those principles which guide our Movement will form the foundation of a revolutionary New Order here on earth.

At this time I salute in deepest gratitude every loyal comrade, as I call upon you for a redoubled display of that dedication and devotion which have sustained our holy Cause till now.

HEIL HITLER!

Matt Koehl
