Lincoln Rockwell Celebrated

COMMENTARY

The Moral Premise

To do, or not to do. That is the question.

In our response to this question lies the answer to our being or nonbeing. For even the passive act of nondoing is as consequential as that of doing.

We all know what must be done. Providence has sent us a singular and special figure to show the way. It remains for us but to follow this way.

Today our race is beset by a strange malaise, a debilitating paralysis of the will. Indeed, if an earlier Aryan victory represented a triumph of the will, our present condition may be attributed to the very opposite: namely, a failure of the will.

This failure manifests itself in various ways—in personal softness, neurotic angst, compulsive escapism, decadent excess, self-destructive behavior of all kinds, and a detachment from reality which is the hallmark of contemporary society. But above all, it manifests itself in apathy, indifference and—moral desertion.

This malaise has infected the marrow of our racial soul. It represents a moral issue, one which threatens our racial existence and lies at the heart of our dilemma.

It is not from a lack of numbers that our race is perishing. It is not from a lack of means or resources. It is not from a lack of ability. Rather, it is from an unwillingness to commit those numbers, those means and resources and that ability which we possess to the cause of a better world.

Put quite simply, all of our woes stem from a refusal to do the right thing.

NEW ORDER founder honored in commemorative vigil at Bloomington, Illinois, birthsite

The 85th birthday of National Socialist pioneer George Lincoln Rockwell was celebrated by members of his organization in a public commemoration March 9 in Bloomington, Illinois.

Led by the Hitler champion's former right-hand man and designated successor, NEW ORDER Commander Matt Koehl, a delegation from the Rockwell organization paid tribute to their founder in a high-profile vigil outside the former hospital site in Bloomington, Illinois, where the controversial National Socialist figure was born on March 9, 1918.

Standing in subzero temperature, the delegation displayed a huge streamer with the words "LINCOLN ROCKWELL LIVES!" The group also raised a bright Swastika banner, which caught the eye of thousands of passing motorists and pedestrians as it fluttered proudly in the breeze.

Also prepared specially for the occasion were hundreds of leaflets with the headline "He fought against Hitler," inviting readers to discover for themselves why a man who had once opposed the German Leader would become his greatest champion.

A supplementary leaflet described Commander Rockwell's rejection of conservatism and why he came to believe that the only way to racial victory was through the Swastika and faith in Adolf Hitler and his providential Cause.

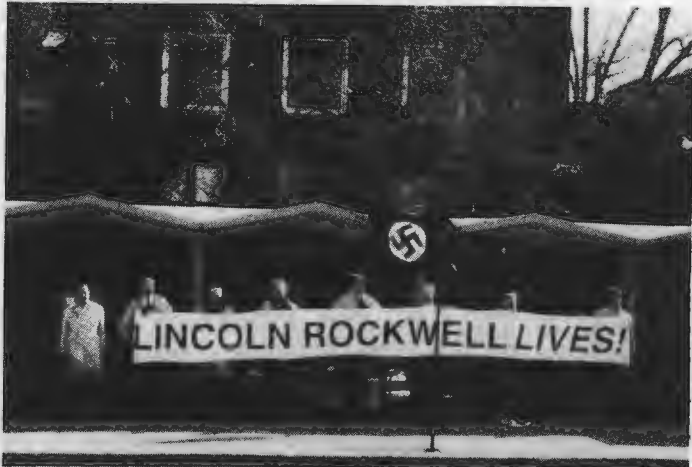

Prior to that, the National Socialist pioneer had experimented with various less-controversial, opportunistic alternatives, only to conclude that such "sneaky" gestures fooled no one—least of all a cunning enemy—and that they led nowhere. Only by total honesty, by being oneself and standing up and declaring what one believed in, was true Aryan victory possible.

For his uncompromising National Socialist stance, Commander Rockwell was attacked by many, who accused him of working for the very enemy he opposed. Subsequent events, however, have confirmed the fundamental soundness of his principled stand, something many of his former critics have been forced to admit.

The Rockwell organization, known as the NEW ORDER, represents the organized Hitler movement today in an unbroken line of succession and trust since its formation in 1959. It has marked its founder's birthday regularly at the site since the early 1970s.

Wisconsin activist organizes exhibit at local library

Wisconsin activist Christine Miller recently secured space at the Marshfield Public Library for a pro-National Socialist exhibit that she designed. The exhibit, which ran for two weeks in April, included a National Socialist flag and reproductions of water-color paintings by Adolf Hitler, as well as other NS artifacts and books on historical revisionism.

Jews in the area, few in number but highly vocal, were aghast at Miller's ability to secure prime exhibition space at the library.

But Library director Lori Belongia defended her decision to permit the exhibit.

"Any time we abridge the right to speak for one, we abridge the right for all of us to speak," she said. "We invite anyone and everyone to use our cases."

Miller has broadcast Holocaust revisionist videos on a local public-access cable channel, and the daily Marshfield News-Herald newspaper frequently publishes her letters.

Miller has run in a series of campaigns for the local school board in this central Wisconsin town of 18,800, regularly pulling in 10% to 25% of the vote. This year she received 1,434 votes, compared to 231 votes in her first run. That wasn't enough to win, but it was more than enough to make Marshfield's Jews uneasy.

Members of the local Jewish community have in the past tried to ignore Miller's activities, citing a policy of deliberate silence.

"We didn't want to rise to the bait," explained Rabbi E. Daniel Danson of Mount Sinai Congregation, a synagogue in nearby Wausau. "But the situation has reached critical mass."

Overwhelming 'No' to Warmongering

On February 14 the NEW ORDER conducted a random e-mail poll asking 1,000 persons these questions:

- Who do you believe poses a greater threat to world peace: Saddam Hussein or George Bush?
- By which of these do you personally feel more threatened: the Baghdad regime or the Bush administration?
- Where do you believe there is a greater need for regime change: Baghdad or Washington?

The results were given in the March 14 issue of the noted French weekly Rivarol.

UN NON MASSIF AU BELLICISME

Le 14 février, le mouvement radical américain New Order (PO Box 270486 Milwaukee, WI 53227, USA) organisait parmi un millier de correspondants un sondage par Internet. Pour la première question : « De Saddam Hussein ou de George Bush, lequel représente une plus grande menace pour la paix », les résultats sont les suivants : George Bush 85%, Saddam Hussein 5 %, incertains 10 % (les chiffres ont été arrondis au 5 % inférieur ou supérieur).

A la deuxième question : « Par qui vous sentez-vous personnellement le plus menacé ? », 85 % des sondés ont également répondu « le gouvernement de Washington », et à la troisième question : « Où pensez-vous qu'il y ait le plus urgent besoin de changement de régime, Bagdad ou Washington ? », c'est aussi Washington qui l'emporte, par 80 % des réponses.

Ce qui confirme en tous points l'analyse de Jim Reeves sur l'opposition résolue de l'extrême droite américaine à la « guerre de Sharon ».

De son côté, le magazine américain Time propose un autre sondage en ligne pour déterminer quel pays, selon l'opinion publique, constitue la menace la plus grave pour la paix dans le monde : la Corée du Nord, l'Irak et les USA. Jusqu'à présent, avec plus de 400 000 réponses, ce sont les USA qui arrivent largement en tête ! Plus de 87,6 %, un pourcentage encore supérieur à celui avancé par New Order.

THE LEAFLET "He fought against Adolf Hitler" is available in quantity of 10 for $2, 50/$8, or 200/$20, postage paid.

public in this country down on this government like abandoning or opposing Israel in a critical matter," Falwell says. The conservative Christian public, he said, is Bush's core constituency.

The Christian Right is also a core constituency for Israeli Prime Minister Ariel Sharon. It treated him like a rock star when its members flocked to Jerusalem last fall to celebrate the Jewish Feast of Tabernacles.

Why do they love Israel so much?

For Evangelicals, the creation of the Jewish state and the Israeli conquest of Jerusalem are seen as preconditions for the Second Coming of Christ. And today's war between Jews and Arabs was also prophesied, they say. They've seen it all written—in the pages of their Bible.

These Christian fundamentalists see the whole, apocalyptic plot—replete with mass armies, fleets of warplanes and exploding atomic bombs—right there in scripture. And it all winds up on an ancient battlefield in northern Palestine called Armageddon where, according to the Book of Revelations, the final, horrific battle of the future will be fought—all this to be followed by seven years of tribulation, during which the Earth will be shaken by such disasters as have never before been seen. Only then can Jesus return to begin his 1,000-year rule, and only thus can they be blissfully raptured up into the sky.

"I believe that we are seeing prophecy unfolding so rapidly and dramatically and wonderfully and, without exaggerating, it makes me breathless" said Ed McAteer, a former Colgate executive from Memphis and godfather of the Christian Right, who believes that the current situation is the beginning of the final battle.

In anticipation of these horrendous events, Christian Zionists have begun making pilgrimages to settlements in the occupied West Bank and Gaza, which they regard as holy sites. They believe their god gave the land of Palestine to the Jewish people.

"Every grain of sand between the Dead Sea, the Jordan River, and the Mediterranean Sea belongs to the Jews," says McAteer. "This includes the West Bank and Gaza."

As to the three million Palestinians who live on the West Bank and Gaza, McAteer suggests they should be cleansed from this god-given real estate. Nothing must come between the Jews and their coveted land.

Hoax holy sites to be preserved

At the behest of its vocal Jewish minority, the United States has joined with the German puppet regime to preserve and sanctify designated Holohoax showpiece sites in that country.

Similar to medieval stations of the Cross, the sites will afford German and other Gentile penitents the unique opportunity to grovel and renew their guilt, as they contemplate the great mystery of the Hoax. Not included among the sites are such places as Dresden, Hamburg, Cologne, Kassel, Essen, Darmstadt, Pforzheim, Mannheim, Gelsenkirchen and all the other German cities, where hundreds of thousands were burned alive in World War II terror bombings by the Allies in a REAL holocaust!

With usual Washington fanfare, the U.S. and German governments on May 19 signed a joint agreement to preserve so-called Holocaust sites. The agreement, negotiated by the U.S. Commission for the Preservation of America's Heritage Abroad, commits the two countries to preserve "cultural" sites including cemeteries, houses of worship and other "places of commemoration."

"[The people of Germany] bear responsibility to confront the past and remember it truthfully and accurately," commission chairman Warren L. Miller intoned solemnly and without irony.

The commission has signed bilateral agreements to preserve "cultural" properties with 12 other countries throughout Eastern and Central Europe, including Ukraine, the Czech Republic and the former Soviet Baltic states—Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia—as well as other countries seeking to enter the European Union.

Miller said it was essential for the United States to preserve Hoax sites in Germany "as part of U.S. history, because we are a nation of immigrants and a large percentage of Americans view the Holocaust as part of their heritage."

The campaign to create the commission to preserve Jewish monuments and other Holohoax holy sites throughout the world, which Congress founded in 1979, was led by Brooklyn, N.Y., Rabbi Zvi Kestenbaum, himself another survivor.

Meanwhile, the U.S. State Department has announced that one Randolph Marshall Bell has been named "Special Envoy for Holocaust Issues." Although there is no U.S. envoy to the Crucifixion or special government office for the Immaculate Conception, there is now an official representative to the Holy Hoax. Bell has been involved on behalf of Jews seeking World War II gold.

Whale of a Fish Story

Not since the days of Jonah and his three days and three nights inside the belly of a whale has there been a fish story quite like it. An obscure Jewish sect in New York has been gripped in awe by what it believes to be a mystical visitation by a 20-pound carp that was heard shouting in Hebrew, in what many Jews worldwide are hailing as a modern miracle.

Many of the 7,000-member Skver sect of Hasidim in New Square, 30 miles north of Manhattan, believe God has revealed himself in the form of a fish. According to two fish-cutters at the New Square Fish Market, the carp was about to be slaughtered and made into gefilte fish for Sabbath dinner when it suddenly began shouting apocalyptic warnings in Hebrew. They believe it was channeling the troubled soul of a revered community elder who recently died; others say it was God.

The only witnesses to the mystical show were Zalmen Rosen, a 57-year-old Hasid, and his co-worker, Luis Niveló. They say that on January 28 they were about to club the carp on the head when it began yelling and carrying on.

Nivelo, a Gentile who does not understand Hebrew, was so shocked at the sight of a fish talking in any language that he fell over. He ran into the front of the store screaming: "It's the Devil! The Devil is here!" Then the shop owner heard it shouting warnings and commands, too.

"It said 'Tzaruch shemirah' and 'Hasof bah,'" he told the New York Times, "which essentially means that everyone needs to account for themselves because the end is near."

The animated carp commanded Rosen to pray and study the Torah. Rosen tried to kill the fish but injured himself. It was finally butchered by Nivelo and sold.

However, word spread far and wide and Nivelo complains he has been plagued by phone calls from as far away as London and Israel. The story has since been amplified by repetition, and some now believe the fish's outburst was a warning about the dangers of the impending war in Iraq.

Some say they fear the born-again President Bush believes he is preparing the world for the Second Coming of Christ, and war in Iraq is just the opening salvo in the battle of Armageddon.

THE MORAL PREMISE

But if we speak of the failings of white people in general, how much greater are the sins of those legions who have professed, not only a concern for the fortunes of their race, but allegiance to the National Socialist cause—only to abandon all honor and self-respect by capitulating and deserting the field without a fight but with one weak excuse or another?

It is, above all, in the sorry spectacle of this moral collapse that we find the ultimate source of our present condition. Though others may choose to exploit this condition, we cannot blame them for it. This collapse is self-induced and not caused by outside agency.

The reason that whites generally—but particularly those claiming special awareness—stand defeated is because they have forgotten this moral premise of their existence.

What distinguishes human beings from the lower animal species is their evolved ability to reason, to reflect and process knowledge as a supplement to their underlying instincts and emotions. This ability is most conspicuously developed in the Aryan.

Along with this cognitive and rational faculty, we have been imbued with a free will and the ability to choose between right and wrong, based on the knowledge and understanding we have gained. It is this freedom to make choices which establishes the moral premise for all high-level life.

Now, out of this freedom which we have been accorded, there is a corresponding responsibility. Once one knows something, then one bears an obligation and responsibility to act in accord with that truth which one has recognized. Indeed, the greater one's knowledge and understanding, the greater one's personal responsibility to undertake such action.

This is perhaps the biggest reason why, in presenting racial truth, one encounters so much hostility and resistance. Most people feel quite comfortable in their ignorance. Any acquisition of knowledge and insight might threaten such comfort, for with it there comes a corresponding obligation to act upon that knowledge and insight—something most people would prefer to avoid.

But today, we are under a collective existential threat, and moral evasion is no longer an option. Every white man and woman who perceives the threat bears a personal responsibility to act to counter this threat.

Everyone can do something to bring about a favorable outcome. If one refuses to become part of the solution, then one becomes part of the problem, part of the threat we face—part of the enemy!

More than that, every National Socialist—possessed of greater knowledge and understanding—bears a special responsibility, on the basis of that knowledge and understanding, toward future generations and the formation of a better world. Precisely because more is given to him, more is expected of him than of the average person.

Today, a struggle for the future is under way. Our race is being weighed in the balance to determine whether it is fit to survive on this Earth and whether, at the same time, it is worthy of a better order of things. We—each and everyone—are given a choice in deciding the issue.

The scales of destiny are delicately balanced, and the personal decision of every individual man and woman will tip the scale one way or another. One can choose to lend one's weight in favor of a better world; or one can elect to do nothing—and thereby lend one's weight to the cause of those who are committed to the destruction of our race. In other words, one can—by one's action or inaction—opt for racial life or racial death.

No one can evade this choice. It is not something from which one can run away and hide. For in so doing, one also chooses—even if, by default, for an outcome which one would rather not see! EVERYONE will be compelled to choose. This is the great moral imperative which has been mandated to us.

By recognizing this inescapable imperative—but better, by taking that certain knowledge which we possess and acting upon it with joyous free will—we have an opportunity to reaffirm for all time our claim, not only as human beings, but as Aryans called to a bright and glorious future in a New Order worthy of our highest aspirations.
